The Admiral And His Leg

On the flat-top Valley Forge, when she steamed northward for the first air strike against North Korean forces in the beginning of that grim business which continues on that distant peninsula, there was great confidence in "the Old Man."

To be sure, he stumped about the bridge. One leg had been shot away in the war "ended" by the Japanese surrender. He could be permitted a wry smile if he recalled that, steaming northward with the aircraft ready, and the pilots in the briefing room.

This was Admiral John Hoskins, one of the great fighting commanders of our sea history. The crew liked him as men like commanders in whom they have confidence. They laughed at some of the stories about him. When he took a shower in the small bathroom of his quarters he would put a small metal, folding chair beneath the stump of his leg so that he would not have the difficulty of balancing on one. Once in a heavy, following sea the chair folded on his stump and the howls of angry rebellion became a ship's legend.

The strike was made and all through those early, bitter months when the issue hung in the balance and the fighting was being done by groups of weary, retreating men, Admiral Hoskins and the Valley Forge were a part of the resistance that bent and almost disintegrated, but which never quite did.

Handicapped?

No one ever thought to call him "physically handicapped."

He wasn't. But, today there are thousands of men and women with handicaps no more restricting than his who cannot obtain employment merely because this country has not yet learned that it is what a man has in his head that counts most.

This is national "Employ-the-Handicapped Week." All over the nation employers are being asked to take advantage of the State Employment and Rehabilitation services in their respective states and interview for jobs some of the many available men and women with skills, ambition, loyalty, courage and a willingness to work.

There is no guess work about it.

There are more than 6,000,000 handicapped workers on the job in the United States. Each week the combined state employment offices place between 20,000 and 30,000 at work. Some are blind, some have lost legs or arms, many wear braces, some have twisted limbs — but they have good heads, hearts and courage and they want to earn their own way and be a part of life.

It is curious that a nation which has had so many great examples of accomplishment by the handicapped in our communities and in our national life should have allowed the seemingly inexhaustible supply of labor to make it so difficult for a handicapped person to find work. Despite intelligence, loyalty, skills and a burning desire to work, many have been passed over for some oafish lunkhead whose chief recommendation was that his handicap—a slow brain—could not be seen.

Techniques

Rehabilitation techniques are very far advanced. They enable the very seriously handicapped to do thousands of jobs and do them well. They are at work in radio, television and precision instrument shops, to mention but a few places where their gifts have been recognized.

Many of these who need jobs—who are at work studying and learning to take jobs—are men who have suffered some handicap in war—wars past and wars present. They don't want to live on pensions or relief. They want work. And they deserve it, having earned it.

The truth is the labor picture already is growing serious. The Army and Navy will take more and more men. Selective Service says it already is scraping the bottom of the barrel. Modern technology demands more workers, just as the machines of war require larger crews of skilled men to use and repair them.

The war plants are going to require more workers than those of the last war. Thousands of these jobs can be held by physically handicapped trained workers.

So let this week remind us, and let every man with jobs to fill survey his community and check with the State Employment Service—and fill as many jobs as possible with those who are not really handicapped when it comes to doing a job of work for which they are fitted.

Feeble Reds Reel Before New Attack

Action Heaviest Since Last May

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Saturday, Oct. 13 — (AP) — Three Allied divisions opened an attack Saturday along a 22-mile front in central Korea and gained up to a mile against feeble Chinese Red resistance.

The whole Korean front exploded in the heaviest fighting since last May, with Allied units suffering reverses at points in the east and west Friday.

Saturday's limited objective attack in the center was south of Kumsong, a Red stronghold 29 miles north of Parallel 38. The U. S. 24th Division scored the mile advance.

The other two divisions in the attack were the South Korean Second and Sixth.

The heavy stab was made in the direction of Kumsong, which has been under air and artillery fire since last August.

First reports on the progress of the assault were fragmentary.

The attack struck an area where the Chinese Reds only a week ago had launched unusually heavy counterattacks. These were beaten off by South Koreans.

As the Allies surged forward in the center, the Communists struck back in the east.

An Eighth Army communique annunced that a Communist platoon had recaptured a dominating peak on Heartbreak Ridge, scene of more than a month of bloody conflict.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said only that the entire strategic hill mass could not be considered "secured" and that savage fighting raged all night on a lower slope of the ridge.

On the western front, possibly 1,000 Chinese Reds in a three-pronged attack overran — with "heavy American casualties"—a weakened battalion of the U. S. Seventh Cavalry Regiment northwest of Yonchon. Yonchin is 35 miles north of Seoul.

The attack in the center was along a front at least 14 miles wide, the briefing officer said.

The situation on Heartbreak Ridge in the east was not clear.

Before the briefing, the communique had reported an Allied setback.

Talks Stalled By Charge of Zone Raids

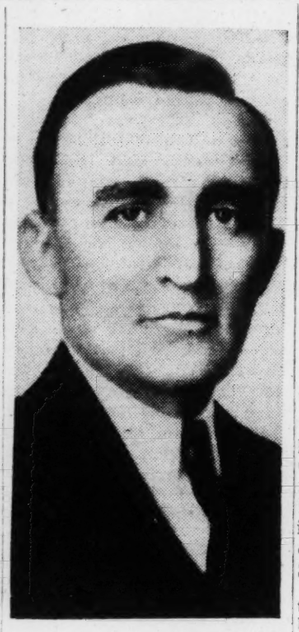

TOKYO, Saturday, Oct. 13—(U.P). Efforts to resume the Korean truce talks stalled Saturday as the Communists charged the Allies with two new neutral area violations and Allied officers made an on-the-spot investigation.

The fourth meeting of United Nations and Communist liason officers had been scheduled for 10 a. m. Saturday (8 p. m. Friday EST) to negotiate the size of the new neutral area. But the liason meeting was held up pending the Allied investigation of the violation charges.

The Reds charged Friday night that three UN planes straffed the Kaesong area, the old conference site, and then the road between Kaesong and Panmunjom, the new conference site, killing one civilian boy and wounding another.

Peiping radio, quoting a dispatch from Kaesong, said "observers here believe that this new serious provocation created by the American side gives rise to deep misgivings as to whether the American side still has the slightest sincerity in preparing for the resumption of armistice negotiations."

An official release from the UN advance camp at Munsan said UN liason officers flew to Panmunjom to continue the investigation they started Friday night, when they were shown the body of the Korean who allegedly was shot by the planes.

$56 Billion Military Bill Is Passed

By C. P. TRUSSELL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 — The Senate completed congressional action Friday on $56,939,568,030 of appropriations to run the armed forces through the current fiscal year and into the next.

It was the largest peacetime military measure of record, although it supplemented some $37,000,000,000 of previous appropriations that remained unexpended as the present fiscal year started on July 1.

The bill now goes to the White House for the President's signature.

A short time after acting on the big defense bill the Senate, after having a fight over Government "press agents" and what they do, also sent to the President a $1,042,867,887 money bill to finance activities of the State, Justice and Commerce departments and the judiciary until next July 1.

With these actions, the first session of the 82nd Congress had approved appropriations totaling more than $71,000,000,000 and establishing a new peacetime record.

Still "in the works" were bills containing nearly $14,000,000,000—for foreign military and economic aid, for military construction here and abroad, to fight floods and improve navigation and harbors, and to keep going agencies that had run short of cash — yet to be

U.S. Rejects Red Protest On Italians

West To Lift Limits on Arms

BY WALTER H. WAGGONER
New York Times News Service.
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—The United States, describing Italy as an "honorable and peace-loving nation," made clear Friday this government's insistence on the lifting of armament restrictions in the Italian peace treaty despite protests from the Soviet Union.

The State Department set forth that position in a statement acknowledging, but rejecting, Moscow's reply to proposals by the United States, France and Britain for revision of the treaty with Italy. Although the department in no way involved the other two Western powers in Friday's informal answer to Moscow, observers said it could be assumed that London and Paris would be in full agreement with United States firmness on this issue.

FOLLOWED TALKS

A tripartite decision to seek changes in the Italian peace treaty, which went into force in 1947, was announced here last month during the visit of Prime Minister Alcide de Gasperi. The proposal followed close upon talks here by the Big Three Western foreign ministers.

Answering this proposal in a note on Oct. 11, the Soviet Union charged that the "actual" purpose of the proposed treaty revision was to exploit Italy "in the interests of the aggressive Atlantic bloc."

At the same time, the note agreed to removing the armament limits in the Italian treaty on these conditions: (1) that the limitations be also lifted in the treaties with Bulgaria, Hungary, Rumania and Finland, (2) that Italy be excluded from the aggressive North Atlantic bloc," and (3) that Italy bar foreign military bases and armed forces from its territory.

SOVIET TURNED DOWN

The State Department's answer to these conditions was an unequivocal rejection of the whole Soviet position. In not a single sentence, the Department held, does the Soviet note "recognize or acknowledge that the spirit of this treaty no longer accords with Italy's present status as an active and equal member of the democratic and freedom-loving family of nations."

"It disregards all that Italy has accomplished since the war," the State Department continued. "It attributes to that honorable and

Ignore Alumni In Grid Study, Beaver Says

The Georgia Board of Regents should not bow to the temporary pressure of over-enthusiastic alumni and others, but should follow recommendations of the Tech and Georgia presidents for a "reasonable" de-emphasis of football, Regent Sandy Beaver, of Gainesville, said Friday.

Beaver, in a letter to the other regents, made public the recommendations of University President O. C. Aderhold and Tech President Blake Van Leer. He urged a special committee of five regents—which is to confer with college officials Oct 20—to recommend turning the matter over to the college presidents and back these leaders in their recommendations.

President Aderhold and 12 faculty members on the University of Georgia Athletic Board and the Faculty Athletic Committee recommended the following steps in a letter on Sept. 28 but withheld from publication by the board:

First, abolition of Spring football practice.

Second, limit the number of grants-in-aid to players.

Third, abolish the two-platoon system.

Iran Spikes Negotiation Of Oil Row

By WALTER SULLIVAN
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 12—Iran Friday in effect rejected the new British proposal whereby the Security Council would ask both parties in the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute to negotiate their differences and avoid provocative actions.

The Iranian spokesman, Dr. Hussein Fatemi, nevertheless hinted that his government would accept the good offices of the Council if that organ did not accept jurisdiction in the case. Tehran's argument has been that this was a domestic dispute and hence neither the Security Council nor the International Court of Justice had any authority to interfere.

The British proposal was in the form of a new draft resolution which Sir Gladwyn Jebb is due to present at the meeting of the Security Council Monday afternoon, its text was made public Friday. This revision of the previous British draft has been the subject of extensive private discussions between Britain and other Council members, especially the United States.

The original British resolution was proposed on Sept. 29. It would have ordered Iran to abide by the World Court injunction for a status quo, pending a court ruling, and would have told Tehran not to oust the British technicians at Abadan.

The new resolution issues no such orders. It, nevertheless, asserts that a dispute has arisen between the British and Iranian Governments, continuance of which "is likely to threaten the maintenance of International peace and security." It contains a number of references to the court injunction and stresses the importance of "upholding the authority" of the court.

Thus, the resolution effectively affirms Council jurisdiction in the dispute and upholds the World Court.

Dr. Fatemi, who is deputy to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, opened his fourth daily press conference at United Nations headquarters with a prepared statement. He said that, while he had not read the new British resolution, "the Iranian delegation is strongly opposed to any resolution which could enable the Security Council to interfere in the oil question."

Ideal Football Weather Seen For State Today

Clear and mild weather will make Saturday an ideal Autumn-crisp football day for Georgians.

The weatherman said scattered frosts will be confined to North Georgia valleys.

After a chilly Friday night Atlanta will be slightly warmer Saturday with an expected rise in temperature from 45 to 74. Sunday the mercury will reach 76 after a low of 48, the forecaster said. Extremes Friday were 46 and 69.

Night Spent in Car Spurs Truant Speller

Nine-year-old George Theal Harrison, of 1207 Boulevard, N. E., decided to have a second try at spelling examinations.

After flunking a spelling quiz Thursday, George informed his family that he was leaving. And leave he did, taking a piggy bank with $20, but no extra clothing.

A frantic search by George's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison, Sr., and the police produced not a single clue.

Friday morning, however, George was discovered sleeping soundly in the family car parked in front of the home. He admitted a bit sheepishly that he really could do better in spelling next time.

A-Powered Submarines To Be Fast

By AUSTIN STEVENS
New York Times News Service,
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 — An official Navy publication disclosed Friday that the "gigantic" atomic-powered submarines of the future, one of which is now building, will attain underwater speeds as high as 35 knots. The best submerged speed expected of some of the latest type conventionally powered undersea craft, not yet tested, is about 25 knots at "all out."

A survey of advances in submarine design and propulsion drawn from official sources also disclosed that a "single charge" of uranium in the nuclear thermal reactor of the atomic submarine would propel the submersible "tens of thousands of miles."

Both the nuclear power plant and the specially-designed thick hull to accommodate it are under contract by the Navy.

The Navy-written article pointed out the atomic-powered submarine would achieve virtual "independence of air," unlike air-consuming diesel systems of today's submarines.

Thus, it is pointed out that the only restriction on the time an atomic submarine could remain completely submerged would be air for the crew and the crew's endurance in the restricted quarters.

AF Cuts Enlistment Of Women to 3 Years

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Air Force Friday reduced the initial enlistment for women recruits from four to three years.

Female personnel, the Air Force said, may now enlist for three, four, five or six years. Enlistments for male recruits remain at four, five and six years.

'Abadan, Sudan, Bevan' Deplored by Churchill

LONDON, Oct. 12—(UP)—Winston Churchill charged in a gloves-off election speech Friday night that six years of Labor government have brought about the greatest drop in Britain's world prestige since the loss of the American colonies in the Revolutionary War.

"Abadan, Sudan, and Bevan are a trio of misfortune," he said, referring to the British evacuation of Iran, Egypt's threat to oust the British from the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, and the success of left-wing rebel Aneurin Bevan within the Labor Party.

"Our Oriental empire has been liquidated," Churchill said. "Our resources have been squandered. The pound sterling is only worth three quarters of what it was when Mr. (Clement) Attlee took over from me."

The wartime prime minister spoke twice in his home constituency north of London. Anthony Eden, his chief deputy in the Conservative Party, spoke in Coventry in their campaign for a return to power in the Oct. 25 elections.

Churchill aimed his attack on a statement by Prime Minister Attlee that the Labor Party had only six years to clean up the "mess of centuries." He said the "mess of centuries" was what Britain represented to Attlee when he took office in 1945—"when she emerged honored and respected from one end of the world to the other by friend and foe alike after the most glorious victory for freedom."

Attlee, meanwhile, continued his whistle-stop tour of Britain during which he will make several speeches over the weekend. Other Laborite speakers kept up a running fire of charges against the Conservatives.

Britain Warns Egypt Against Use of Force

Morrison Promises No Suez Backdown

LONDON, Oct. 12—(UP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison Friday warned that any attempt to oust British troops from the Suez Canal Zone by force would be met by force.

Morrison sounded the warning in a speech at Isleworth in reply to a demand from the audience for assurance that Britain will "not back out of Egypt as we have got out of Persia."

Morrison said the situation in Iran was different from that in Egypt.

In Iran, the only alternative at the end was force and "that probably would have meant war," he said.

"Egypt is a totally different matter. There are substantial British forces here," he said.

'BRITISH WILL STAY'

When his questioner persisted and asked: "Are we going to stay even if it means force?" Morrison replied:

"I will answer that we shall not start force, but if somebody else does, our people will defend themselves and the government will support them.

"But," he added, "we much prefer an amicable settlement of the whole problem."

Morrison's speech came after he had conferred urgently with Britain's chiefs of staff to map strategy on the rapid-fire developments which are crumbling the Empire's position in the Middle East.

Informed sources said the meeting between Morrison and the defense chiefs discussed a decision by the Western Powers to proceed with plans for the defense of the Suez Canal area even if Egypt rejects proposals to be an equal partner in a Middle East defense system.

IRAQ MAKES DEMANDS

The top level conference was called after oil-rich Iraq joined ranks with Iran and Egypt in the parade of demands on Britain. Iraq asked Britain to revise a 25-year-old treaty under which the British maintain two of their most important Middle East air bases—at Habbaniya and Shaiba.

The British lion's tail also was twisted Friday at Geneva, where Egypt charged before a United Nations council that Britain has made a deal to aid Libya in exchange for military bases in that former Italian North African colony.

Chief topic of Friday's Foreign Office discussions was said to be Egypt, which plans to scuttle the 1936 treaty by which Britain maintains troops in the Suez Canal Zone, vital waterway from the Mediterranean to the East.

The U. S., Britain, France and Turkey were reported preparing to submit to Egypt a proposed plan for Middle East defense under which Egypt would join them in a joint defense system for the canal area.

Informed sources here said the British chiefs decided that "if Egypt rejects the invitation we cannot allow that to prejudice the fulfilment of our international responsibilities."

Chief Says All Moslems Stand With Egypt

KARACHI, Pakistan, Oct. 12—(AP)—All Moslems back Egypt in her moves to cut her treaty ties with Britain, President Abu Bakr Abdul Halim of the World Moslem Conferences said Friday.

"If," through lack of statesmanship, the British government precipitates a world catastrophe," Halim said in a statement to newsmen, "it will be held responsible for the tragic consequences.

"In this declaration abrogating the Anglo-Egyptian treaty the government of Egypt and its people enjoy the unanimous, wholehearted support not only of the Arab countries, but of the entire Moslem world."

British Set Troop Move Into Sudan

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 12—(AP)—Egypt soon will put the heat on British troops in the Suez Canal area by declaring them "enemy forces" and cancelling their special privileges, official sources said Friday.

A program of non-co-operation to cut off the troops' drinking water, fresh food and the use of Egyptian labor was forecast to follow the Egyptian Parliament's abrogation, expected Monday, of the two old treaties.

These treaties authorize Britain to keep 10,000 troops, 400 pilots and various auxiliaries on guard at the strategic canal and provide for joint British-Egyptian rule of Sudan, bordering Egypt on the south.

Britain has announced she intends to maintain her full rights under the treaties, however, and British military men here did not appear deeply concerned over the new threat.

A battalion of the South Lancashire Regiment, stationed at Trieste for three years, was ordered to be ready to embark for Sudan by Oct. 25—speeding up a long scheduled transfer by a month. The native Sudan defense force is commanded by the British.

British service sources said that, even if Egypt did cut off supplies and communications, their Suez base could get along for a considerable time because "it is a living system which has its own stores, communications and power systems."

After two days of anti-foreign demonstrations in support of Premier Mustapha Nahas Pasha's moves to throw the British out of Egypt, the Interior Ministry clamped on the lid.

Jessup Action Unlikely at This Session

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—President Truman's nomination of Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup to serve on this country's delegation to the United Nations may be considered dead, barring a series of wholly improbable events.

Inquiry among responsible Senators disclosed Friday that there was hardly the slightest possibility that the appointment would be acted upon one way or the other by the Senate before this session of Congress is adjourned, probably by next Saturday.

Only an urgent and successful intervention by the White House, it seemed clear, would be likely even to advance the issue from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to the Senate floor itself. Even if it reached the floor, there was every prospect that it would be too late.

There nevertheless would be no legal bar to the Ambassador's going on to the assignment which the President has given him, the sixth session of the general as-

Unbeaten Tech, Bengals Clash Here; Bulldogs Host to Maryland in Athens

By BERT PRATHER

LSU's surprising Tigers will invade Grant Field Saturday afternoon to met Coach Bobby Dodd's potent Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets. Both are unbeaten. The battle opens at 2:30 and is expected to attract a crowd of 35,000 or more.

Picked among the also-rans in pre-season polls, Coach Gaynell Tinsley's Bayou Bengals have knocked off Mississippi Southern, Alabama's Crimson Tide and Rice Institute in successive starts. But, according to the boys who make the line, this will be the end of the line for the Tigers. Tech's mighty little men, victors over Southern Methodist, Florida and Kentucky, rule as 13-point favorites.

Both teams have performed better on defense than offense, so the big turnout at the Flats may see more head-knocking than running.

Following the Grant Field show many fans will head down the highway for Athens and the big struggle between powerful Maryland and Wally Butts' Georgia Bulldogs. The Bulldogs are expected to rebound from their first loss of the season last Saturday at the hands of Mississippi State. This bruising battle is scheduled to start at 8:15.

Maryland, featuring highly publicized Mighty Mo Modezlewski and Jack Scarbath, is rated a slight favorite over the Bulldogs. Georgia is crippled in spots, but expects to give the Old Liners a titanic struggle.

Elsewhere in the Southeastern Conference, Tulane will face high-scoring Holy Cross' Crusaders at New Orleans; Kentucky entertains Mississippi State at Lexington in the hopes of breaking a three-game losing binge; Tennessee's mighty Vols will take a breather against little Chattanooga at Knoxville; Florida and unbeaten Auburn collide at Auburn in a homecoming affair for the Plainsmen and Ole Miss tangles with Vanderbilt at Memphis.

The national spotlight will be focused on Dallas, where Texas meets Oklahoma's Sooners in the Cotton Bowl and South Bend, Ind., where Notre Dame's Fighting Irish will tangle with a hopped-up Southern Methodist.

A-Weapon Supply Great, Says Dean

Use of Nuclear Energy In Industry Predicted

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Oct. 12—(UP)—Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said Friday the nation is storing "great quantities" of atomic weapons.

The dawn of atomic power for industry may be near, he said.

"We do not have it yet. It is still around the corner," he said. "But we are going to have it."

Dean's remarks were prepared for delivery before the Indiana convention of electric power engineers. He was not able to be present and his speech was read by Alfonso Tammaro, manager of the AEC's Chicago operations office.

Dean said that the nation has "great quantities of fissionable material that we are storing in the form of weapons."

But he said that if war is averted, the same material can be used for peacetime uses.

IDAHO EXPERIMENT

He revealed that the AEC is about to experiment with production of atomic power at its Idaho testing station, where it also is building a "land-based" prototype of a nuclear reactor for the propulsion of a submarine.

Dean emphatically foresaw a day when atomic power will be produced creating vast problems for an economy built on coal, gas, oil and hydro-electric power.

"We are going to have atomic power plants," he said. "But how many we will have and how important they will be hinges largely on the factor of cost.

"To make atomic power worthwhile, we must get most of these plants down to where they can compete favorably with coal, gas, oil and hydro-electric systems, at least in some areas and for some kinds of industries.

COMPETITION STUDIED

"When this will be, and in just how many areas it will be true, is something about which today we can only speculate."

Dean disclosed that several private power firms already have become interested in producing atomic power themselves, perhaps selling the fissionable material they produce in reactors to the government.

Dean said this sale price, which might amount to a subsidy fee, would determine whether atomic power could compete in the market with present-day forms.

He said that the Idaho reactor is not expected to "produce very much power," and this development will be only a by-product to the machine's main purpose of experimenting with "breeding."

Dean explained that only one percent of uranium ore is usable for atomic energy.

By "breeding," he said, the AEC hopes to operate the reactor in such a way that some of the other 99 percent of uranium is made usable.

He said the experiment was comparable to a combustion engine that would—while operating—transform crude oil into gasoline.

Polio 'Appeal' Girl Dies of Influenza

AURORA, Ill., Oct. 12. (INS)—Barbara Jean Lentz, the 12-year-old girl who was paralyzed by polio from the neck down—and learned to write by holding a pen in her mouth—died Friday in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Aurora.

The plucky child became known to millions of newspaper readers in 1950 when she was photographed as she laboriously scrawled an appeal for support of the March of Dimes.

Physicians said Barbara Jean, still suffering from the ravages of polio, died of influenza.

Accusations Caused Rift, Rose Asserts

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Broadway Producer Billy Rose said Friday "nasty accusations" had wrecked his married life with lovely Eleanor Holm, who found another woman in his lavish suite Sunday.

It was those accusations, he said, that brought the girl to his Ziegfeld Theater apartment on a rainy afternoon. Suspicious, Eleanor showed up with a detective—and the Roses separated in a huff several minutes later.

GIVES DETAILS

Rose said the breakup of his 12-year "ideal" marriage came to a head this way:

All had not been well since "the thing" happened—the episode in which actress Joyce Mathews slashed her wrists in his apartment last July. Innuendo had "muddled up" the marriage.

Recently his 37-year-old wife, an ex-swimming star, accused him of misconduct. She said she had got it straight from one girl who had talked to the other girl involved.

"I called the young lady who supposedly had been meeting me and asked her to come to the theater," Rose said.

PROPERLY DRESSED

She came, "dressed quite properly." She said "None of the things Eleanor said were true." So, Rose said, he was convinced the "rumormongers were at it again." A few minutes later he took her downstairs in the elevator.

As he started back up, he heard angry voices—Eleanor, the girl and the detective. Everybody went up to the Rose apartment to talk.

Eleanor found earrings. She looked in the bedroom. The bed was unrumpled. Then she called her lawyer. Rose called his.

Finally, the hot words ended, the party broke up.

And that, Rose said, was all there was to it. And nothing like newspaper reports. No half-dressed people. No woman in the bathroom. No blue pajamas. No embarrassing pictures.

So far, Eleanor hasn't given her account.

Enemy Casualties In Korea Placed At 1,346,723

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Army Friday estimated total enemy casualties in Korea through Oct. 2 at 1,346,723. This represents an increase of 21,767 in a 12-day period.

Battle casualties for both North Korean and Chinese Communist forces accounted for 15,073 of the estimated rise. Non-battle losses were placed at 214,092 or 5,673 more than were reported through Sept. 20.

The overall total included 165,935 enemy prisoners of war. This was 1,021 more than were reported 12 days ago.

Announced U. S. battle casualties through Oct. 5 totaled 89,382. No figures on losses suffered by any other United Nations units in Korea have been reported for many months.

NO FLYING SAUCER—ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Oct. 12—Launching crews prepare to release a giant plastic balloon to be used for the Air Force "Moby Dick" project — testing winds at altitudes between 50,000 and 100,000 feet. The Air Force said the balloons are clearly visible at 100,000 feet on clear days. They may look like a small moon or a flying saucer.

Reds Block Peace Often, Jessup Says

CLINTON, N. Y., Oct. 12—(AP)—Ambassador Philip Jessup, whose nomination as a United Nations delegate has created a sharp controversy, said Friday night the Soviet Union frequently had demonstrated opposition to peace.

Jessup, who is an Ambassador-at-large, spoke at Hamilton College. A graduate of Hamilton, he came here for a trustee meeting.

A fight to block Jessup's appointment is being led by Sen. McCarthy (Rep., Wis.), who contends the Ambassador has followed "all the twists and turns of the Communist line." Jessup has denied this under oath.

Jessup said in prepared excerpts from his speech that UN operations in Korea showed "that those who really believe in peace are not content merely with words and fine phrases but are prepared to devote themselves and if necessary give their lives to prevent Communist imperialism from sweeping over the world and destroying freedom bit by bit."

The Ambassador reviewed recent international events and UN activity. In discussing the Japanese peace conference at San Francisco, he said:

"This was a practical example of peace making, and, as has been demonstrated on many other occasion, when it comes to practical steps to preserve peace, the Soviet Union and its satellites were found in opposition."

Jessup described the UN operation in Korea as "a demonstration of collective security which many people had believed impossible at this stage in world affairs."

Old Dredger Burns

GREENVILLE, Miss., Oct. 12—(AP)—The old U. S. Engineers' dredgeboat Omega, which had been plying Mississippi River waters since 1919, was destroyed by fire early Friday 30 miles north of here. The crew of 11 men escaped.

Fourth Bank Theft Scandal Jolts Pennsylvania Town

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Oct. 12—(AP)—Shocked by bank theft scandals, this little industrial town of 25,000 buzzed anew Friday with arrest by the FBI of a fourth banker in embezzlements amounting to more than a million dollars.

Slight, greying George Rogers Shiarella, 53-year-old assistant cashier of the First National Bank, was picked up at home and charged with misapplication of $12,594 and making false entry on a cash sheet of $81,324.

FBI Agent Fred Hallford said Shiarella admitted illegally using bank funds for personal stock market ventures. Shiarella claimed he had repaid the money.

He is the third arrested at the First National Bank within recent weeks. The first was William P. Smeltzer, another assistant cashier accused of embezzling $550,000. Teller Otto R. Grotefend is charged with taking $16,000. He said he used the money to play slot machines.

The New Kensington arrests started with that of Ludwig R. Schlekat, president of the Parnassus National Bank. He is accused of using $600,000 in bank funds to buy controlling stock with which he elected himself president.

The nearby Pittsburgh FBI office has broken eight bank scandals within a year in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Total embezzlements charged is more than $3,000,000.

The FBI said there is no apparent connection between the three shortage cases at the New Kensington First National although each arrest led to another.

Warren Hits Old Guard in California

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 12. (U.P.)—Gov. Earl Warren, of California, lashed out at the conservative wing of the Republican Party Friday night and challenged Old Guard members of the GOP to a test at the ballot box in California's presidential primary.

Warren, Republican vice presidential nominee in 1948, and a possible candidate for the presidential nomination next year, said that there is a group in the party which considered the 1948 platform "too liberal, too progressive."

He said he would welcome any Republicans who believed that to test their views at the polls in his State's primary.

"I think it would be a good thing to have the various viewpoints expressed," he said. "I would welcome it."

The California Chief Executive emphasized that his remarks should not be taken as an avowal or denial of the possibility that he will bid for the GOP presidential nomination.

$35 Million More Requested for Navy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(UP). President Truman Friday asked Congress for an additional $35,247,000 for secret Navy construction.

The new budget brings to $1,000,000,000 the total public works appropriation requested by the Navy for this fiscal year.

The President also asked $1,500,000 for the new contract renegotiation.

Air Force Doctors Test Relief for Old Malady

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 12—(AP)—Two young Air Force doctors may have stumbled on a remedy for an age-old malady of expectant mothers—hyperemesis gravidarum or so-called morning sickness.

While their work at near-by Maxwell Air Force Base still is in preliminary stages, they have had remarkable success in about 10 cases.

The physicians, Capts. Clay N. Wells, 28, of Jackson, Miss., and C. Orian Truss, 28, of Birmingham, Ala., have been working together on it about a month.

They are using Cortisone (25 to 50 mgm. a day), one of the adrenal hormones, and Adrenocorticotropic, more popularly known as ACTH, a pituitary secretion which stimulates the adrenal glands to produce Cortisone. So far they have had no toxic reaction.

HITS ON THEORY

Dr. Wells, an obstetrician who finished at the Louisiana State University Medical College in 1946, hit on the theory when he observed the similarity of the symptoms of Addison's disease and morning sickness.

Addison's disease is an affliction in which the bodily functions are impaired by cessation in hormone production of the adrenal glands.

Wells wondered if the nausea and vomiting of early pregnancy might not be due to a temporary deficiency in Cortisone.

He invited Dr. Truss, a specialist in internal medicine and glandular functions, to join him in testing the theory and putting it in practical use. Truss is a graduate of Cornell Medical College.

Wells and Truss have submitted a preliminary report on their findings for publication in the American Medical Association Journal, but it has not yet been approved by the AMA.

NAUSEA DISAPPEARED

Here is their story:

In cases where they tried the drugs, patients responded almost immediately or within 36 hours. Vomiting and nausea disappeared in most cases after the first few doses.

It is well known that most pregnant women stop having morning sickness after the first three months.

This tends to bear out the Wells-Truss theory since medical science agrees the placenta or afterbirth takes over functions of the pituitary in supplying pregnancy hormones at about this stage.

According to their theory, the pituitary gland is so busy producing pregnancy hormones at first that it doesn't turn out enough ACTH to properly induce Cortisone production.

High Morale Of European Forces Noted

By DREW MIDDLETON
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

BONN, Oct. 12 — The enthusiasm and resolution evidence by hundreds of thousands of ordinary fighting men in the series of major maneuvers now ended has emerged as the greatest strength of the Western world.

As truck columns rumble homeward, it is a sensitive ear indeed that can detect the sound of marching feet in the modern army. Senior officers gathered in Germany for the windup of exercise "Combine" agreed that the outstanding development of these and other maneuvers was the attitude of the man who may have to do the fighting and the dying.

"These people of ours, and the British and French, went out there dead serious," Lt. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, commander of the United States Seventh Army, said. "This was not just another drill or a week in the open; this was something they had to learn if they are to be ready. I think they are morally prepared right now. We can teach them the rest. What counts is their determination."

Other senior officers—British, French, Canadian, Belgian and Dutch—have reached similar opinions after a month of intensive ground and air maneuvers which for the first time have involved all the armies and air forces of the West.

Hold Texas For Truman, Brannan Aim

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Truman administration's effort to keep Texas' unruly Democrats harnessed in 1952 gets an early start here Saturday.

Calling themselves "Volunteer Democrats," this liberal faction of Texas' usually split Democratic Party will hear Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan at a political breakfast. Then they will organize to throttle the renewed threat of a Dixiecrat uprising here.

FRIENDS OF RAYBURN

The breakfast apparently was blessed by top-level administration leaders. First announcements of it came out of Washington, and Speaker Sam Rayburn's friends have been among the chief cooks.

It's all an unusually early warm-up in the usual struggle for control of precinct, county, state and national Democratic convention to be held from early May through September.

Gov. Allan Shivers, National Committeeman Wright Morrow and State Executive Chairman R. E. Wheat won't eat breakfast with the Trumanites. They all got belated invitations, but said no thanks.

Shivers is titular head of the party in Texas. He and Morrow are no friends of Truman. They have challenged the "Volunteer Democrats" claim to the title "loyal Democrats," and assert they are as loyal as anyone to party principles.

REGULARS FEARED

The Volunteer Democrats frankly fear the party organization under Shivers, Wheat and Morrow might go so far as to join in a 1951 Southern revolt against Truman, similar to that of 1948.

Texas didn't go with the Southern bolters in 1948.

Close associates of the Texas party organization's leadership assert they will carry on a last-ditch fight against Truman right to the brink, but short of, bolting. The Texas delegation to the national convention in 1948 voted for Sen. Russell of Georgia as the Democratic presidential nominee. Then in November, 1948, Texas took Truman two to one over the combined Republican and Dixiecrat candidates.

Secretary Brannan is here also to speak to the Texas Social and Legislative Conference. This is a group of militant liberals among Texas Democrats, representing labor, pension, farm and veterans groups long associated with the Roosevelt-Truman wing of the Democratic Party in Texas.

The conference begins Saturday and runs through Sunday.

Catholic Priest Asks If Police Are Paid Enough

CHICOPEE, Mass., Oct. 12—(AP) A Catholic priest, whose father was a police chief, said Friday Americans ought to start wondering if policemen are getting enough pay to guard them against "temptations offered them in the way of bribes."

The Rev. Thomas F. Curran, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, declared in a sermon at the first memorial mass of the Chicopee Police Relief Association:

"We read much in these days of investigation, of corruption among some of your calling in the larger cities. We must not condemn too quickly but we should inquire whether the men we choose to protect us are sufficiently paid."

Georgia Escapee Given Refuge in California

Gov. Earl Warren of California announced Friday he would not extradite John W. Brown who escaped 24 years ago from a Georgia chain gang, but Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook said Georgia would press for return of the fugitive.

Brown, who was serving a sentence for stealing a few shirts and a pair of slippers, has become a successful carpenter in Los Gatos, Calif. Neighbors regard him as a model citizen.

Atty. Gen. Cook added, however, that if California refused to return Brown "then there's nothing in the world we can do about it unless he steps over into another state."

Gov. Warren said that "there is every indication that he has rehabilitated himself."

Warren added that to send Brown back to Georgia would "shatter the lives of his innocent wife and six minor girls."

Injury on Coffee Quest Can't Draw Benefits

LAKELAND, Fla., Oct. 12—(AP)—Getting hurt while going for a drink of coffee on company time does not make you eligible for injury benefits.

J. Franklin Garner, Deputy Florida Industrial Commissioner, ruled Friday that Sara S. Payne of the First National Bank at Clearwater had no claim to benefits when she broke her wrist and hurt a shoulder en route to a coffee shop.

Miss Payne left the bank during working hours and stumbled on a piece of broken sidewalk just two steps away from the coffee-drinking spot.

1948 HEARING TO DETERMINE SIZE OF AIR FORCE

Try at Traffic Control By Russians Recalled

(Sixteenth in Series of Forrestal Diaries)

At the end of March, 1948, in the midst of the controversies over increasing the military budget, a telegram from Gen. Clay in Berlin announced that the Russians had demanded the right to inspect and control rail and truck traffic into the Western sectors of the city. Clay proposed to order his train guards to shoot if necessary to keep the Russians off. In Washington on March 31 there was an almost continuous series of high-level conferences. According to Forrestal's notes:

31 March 1948

The following suggestions were considered:

1. That the President send a message to Stalin pointing out that implementation of the Russian proposal might create an incident which might be provocative of war.

2. That he call into conference the majority and minority leaders of the House and Senate.

3. That instructions be sent to Clay endorsing his proposed action, with a qualification that he be told that his guards would not use their weapons except in self-defense.

4. It was also suggested that immediate communication be had with the British to see whether they had taken action identical to ours and given similar instructions to their train guards.

At Mr. Lovett's suggestion the proposal to have the President address a communication to Marshal Stalin was discarded because it would add disproportionate emphasis on this incident and might convince the Russians that they had secured precisely the effect they were after.

The President on his own initiative decided against calling in congressional leaders because (1) It would become immediately known, and (2) it would add unnecessarily to the creation of a war hysteria.

The question of concerted action was disposed of by a ticker announcement that the British did not propose to stop running their trains and that they would maintain armed guard personnel on them.

APPROACH TO RUSSIANS

Clay was told to bar the Russians from the trains; the Russians retaliated by stopping the trains themselves, and cargoes of food were actually flown into Berlin on April 1. But the Russians were not yet prepared to blockade the city, and this preliminary crisis soon passed. The tension did, however, contribute to an American effort in the following month:

23 April 1948 CABINET

Mr. Lovett summed up the position of Russia in his opinion as being of a dual nature at the moment; (1) constant probing to find out the solidity of our intent; and (2) a reflection of their own fear of a preventive or aggressive war on our part. Two things he felt were contributing to their motivations — the overexcitable statements, some by military people, on a preventive war, and the activities of Henry Wallace and his proposal that the President sit down with Stalin and make a world agreement.

He read a cable, which is to be sent to Bedell Smith, (then ambassador in Moscow) outlining in general terms our position and our desire for accommodation with Russia plus our apprehension that any meeting between the heads of the states would prove as futile and as nonproductive as in the past. Smith was asked his opinion as to whether a communication addressed to Stalin along these lines —namely, that America has no aggressive intent but neither did she intend to let Russia dominate Europe — should be sent by the President or should be explored on a personal basis by Smith himself.

It was later decided that Smith should make the attempt; it was to lead to a rather curious result, described in the next article.

RISING MILITARY COSTS

Meanwhile, the question of the military budget remained to be settled. The President had authorized Forrestal to put his supplemental program, costing $3.481 billion, before Congress, but at the same time had sent it for review to the budget bureau. Forrestal himself was acutely aware of the pressure on the President to hold down expenditure, as is shown by a recorded conversation with Byrnes.

28 April 1948

TELEPHONE CONVERSATION WITH JAMES F. BYRNES

MR. FORRESTAL: These dollar figures have no meaning unless they were accompanied by a relatively small number of sanctions and priorities. . . . The impact of these present programs—I mean by programs ERP, the military supplemental, Maritime Commission and the Atomic Energy, which everybody forgets about and yet is 800 million for procurement— . . . needs the addition of from 7.5 to 15 percent (of current production) in various categories to make them effective. . . . You add onto that what they are talking about now, the lend-lease for the Western Union in Europe of five or six millions, billions, and you have a barrel that is completely full now, and one blow of the hammer is going to bust the bungs on it. . . .

Even so, Forrestal must have been dismayed when he learned at a meeting on May 6 what the budget director, James E. Webb, proposed to do with the supplemental program. Webb had first pared it from nearly $3.5 to $3.1 billion by various detailed economies; he then wanted to slash the program itself by another half-billion through going back to 51 air groups, cutting down on the desperately needed Army re-equipment and deferring Navy air and antisubmarine elements. Even worse, he proposed a permanent "ceiling" of $15 billion a year thereafter on military expenditure. Because the beginners on rearmament which were contemplated for the fiscal year 1948-'49 implied increasing expenditure in subsequent years, this meant that even the strengths permitted under the supplemental program would have to be cut back again in July, 1950, in order to keep within the "ceiling."

WEBB WINS

Suddenly it appeared that it was Mr. Webb who was in control of American military policy rather than the Secretary of Defense. Forrestal protested that the world situation was not such as to warrant such cuts, and that "the next 18 months to two years were a critical period in our relations with Russia." But he could only await the President's decision. He received it at a White House meeting on May 13. The President adopted the $15-billion ceiling; to go beyond it, he held, would mean a total national budget of about $50 billion a year, "and this amount is several billion dollars more than the estimated income at present tax rates. We would be in a position where even with full employment, business good and the tax rates still at a very high level, we would be required to resort to large scale deficit financing." Nevertheless, "taking other factors into consideration," the President would still recommend the supplemental program (as pared to $3.1 billion) on the condition, in effect, that the armed services should not spend it! They were not to create a "structure" which would go beyond the continuing $15-billion limit.

Thus, Webb's viewpoint had largely won, and the size of the armed forces had been prescribed down to the end of June, 1950.

As it turned out, they were actually back by that date to an aggregate strength only 91,000 greater than the low point described by Gruenther's presentation in February, 1948. And as it also turned out, that date fell just six days after the outbreak of the war in Korea—which was to blow the "ceiling" to smithereens. Forrestal had reason for his contention that the ensuing two years were to be "critical."

Suspension Of GI Tax Is Urged

Legion Committee Votes Resolution

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 12—(INS)—The legislative commission of the American Legion Friday passed a resolution asking the suspension of Federal income taxes on service pay for members of the Armed Forces until the present emergency terminates.

The action came during preliminary meetings of policy-forming committees at the 33rd annual national Legion convention in Miami, Miami.

The proposal to suspend income taxes for servicemen, presented by the Ohio Department, also recommended returning any withholding tax money paid by members of the Armed Forces.

The Connecticut Department also presented a resolution to the legislative commission which would bestow voting privileges on all members of the armed forces who are of the minimum ages required by Selective Service laws.

The legislative proposals were referred to the resolutions committee for submission on the floor when the convention gets under way Monday.

Cocke Hails America As Great Melting Pot

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 12—(AP)—The people of the United States have achieved the perfect melting pot of all races, colors, creeds and political beliefs, National Commander Erle Cocke, Jr., of the American Legion declared Friday night.

"It has been made possible because the solvent was the passionate love of freedom by all who came to our shores to make a new life for themselves," he said in a Columbus Day address.

"Today the united people of the Western Hemisphere — Americans all—stand as the mightiest and the last obstacle in the path of rampaging Communism bent on world conquest."

He called Columbus' discovery of America 459 years ago "the greatest event in human history since the birth of Christ," and said it marked the beginning of a new world which was destined to become the "bulwark of freedom."

MISSED BOYS TOWN

Korean Waif War Victim

OMAHA, Oct. 12 — (AP) — A Korean war orphan, for whom even the U. S. Senate had gone to bat, will never reach home he was destined to get in this country.

Kim Nore

Thursday the Senate pased a bill to permit 13-year-old Kim Song Nore to move from the Korean battle zone to Father Flanagan's Boys Town, near Omaha.

Friday, Mrs. Frank Turk of Omaha reported receipt of a letter from her soldier son saying young Kim Nore was killed in Korea Sept. 29 when a supply truck plunged over a cliff on its way to the front.

The Korean boy, nicknamed "Jimmy," had attached himself to the First Marine Division in Korea after his parents were killed at Inchon. He stayed on as mascot and interpreter and was quartered with the headquarters company of the division.

Georgians Aid Korea 'Copter Lift

Twenty-nine officers and men from Atlanta and Georgia are in Marine Helicopter Squadron 161 which transported 1,000 Marines to the Korean war front Thursday in the largest, fastest helicopter airlift in history.

The squadron is composed largely of the 351st Air Reserve unit which was located at the Atlanta Naval Air Station from 1946 until last October when it was mobilized.

Squadron commander is Lt. Col. George W. Herring of Rockmart. Other squadron officers include Maj. J. R. Dyer, operations officer, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Levans, 812 Adair Ave., N. E., and Maj. W. P. Mitchell of Macon, executive officer.

Col. Herring reported that Thursday's operation proved "beyond a doubt" the helicopter would revolutionize infantry warfare.

A new 351st Air Reserve unit, commanded by Maj. L. L. Clark, is being formed at the Atlanta Naval Air Station. Marine officers said veterans or non-veterans between 17 and 32 could join.

Hearing Set For Bowen In Tax Case

A Federal Court hearing has been set for Oct. 23, at which time John Horace Bowen has been ordered to show cause why a 40-foot yacht, a Chrysler automobile and other property he owns should not be sold.

Proceeds from such sales would be applied on a $466,000 debt Federal authorities have charged Bowen and his wife owe Uncle Sam for alleged nonpayment of income taxes. Bowen is president of Concessions, Inc.

The property is presently in custody of Charles H. Edwards, court-appointed receiver for Bowen's assets. He asked the Federal Court for permission to sell the propetty to pay some of Bowen's debts.

Storage on the yacht costs $1.50 a day at Olsen's Yacht Yard, Brunswick, the receiver's petition claims. On the car it is $20 a month, he says.

Edwards was appointed Federal receiver after the Government filed a tax lien against Bowen and his wife for $466,000.

Bullet Ends Errant Career Of Frustrated Hopeful Hero

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., Oct. 12—(AP)—An ex-policeman with a flair for the dramatic was shot to death Thursday night as he backed out of a super-market, clad in a "Man from Mars" costume.

In his hand was a bag containing $13,675 filled by the manager while the gunman waved a shotgun at clerks and 65 customers. It was the biggest of five recent holdups in which he had worn his weird costume—a black fiber crash helmet with white skull painted on it goggles from a gas mask, high boots and a cartridge belt.

The police chief who fired him four years ago for inefficiency summed up the story of Forrest R. Colson, 27, as a life of frustration.

Chief Dan Fay of Glendora explained:

Colson joined the Marines to be a hero, but the chance never came.

He joined the police force to be a hero, visioning desperate gun battles which never came.

He loved the admiration of women, but never could be the hero that would win their adulation.

So he became the "Man from Mars," who stalked into markets and watched people quail before his guns and goblin's face.

A passerby who had seen Colson swagger into the market waving his shotgun, with two automatics at his hips, telephoned police. Officer Harry C. Stone felled him with a single bullet.

Royal Couple Sees Ontario Via Whistle-Stop Tour

TORONTO, Oct. 12—(UP)—Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip made a whistle-stop tour of Ontario Friday and then flew here for the biggest reception of their tour.

It was the busiest day yet for the young royal couple, who stopped in five Ontario cities for welcoming ceremonies before arriving here for a two-day visit.

Their 10-car train, which left Ottawa shortly after midnight, stopped 15 minutes at Cornwall, 10 minutes at Brockville, an hour and 40 minutes at Kingston, 15 minutes at Belleville and nearly two hours at Trenton.

The Princess appeared to be losing some of her British reserve. She chatted sociably with persons on station platforms when the train made brief stops.

The British heiress presumptive was clad all in brown Friday —a brown velvet fitted coat trimmed with silk braid, a dress of brown ribbed silk and a brown cloche feather hat. Two cluster diamond pins were clipped on the collar of her coat.

At Cornwall in midmorning, 15,000 flag-waving children and an equal number of adults cheered the Princess and her husband, who stood on the observation car platform during the brief stop. She was presented with a bouquet of roses and a silver tray during the stopover. The train started up with a jerk, and the Princess lost her balance and lurched forward. Prince Philip caught and steadied her.

Georgia Boy in Kansas City

Political know-how, the ability to meet people, to win their friendship, often their vote, is indigenous to Georgia.

Our elected representatives do all right for themselves and their constituencies in Washington. Georgia delegates go off to national assemblies of their club, craft or faith and come back with the gavel—the titular head of the religious denomination, commander of the American Legion or the Jewish War Veterans or the Spanish War Veterans, and so on.

On Friday at Kansas City, 17-year-old Billy Howard of Plains, in Sumter County, Georgia, was chosen national vice-president of the Future Farmers of America. As second in command to a youngster from Utah—Donald Staheli, the new FFA president—the Future Farmer from South Georgia will take a hand in the extension of vocational agriculture throughout the world.

In a story from the FFA convention, Constitution staff writer Cecil Coffey points out that Billy Howard didn't win his post because of the size of his farming operation or of his farm income. What cinched the number two spot in FFA for him were two talents—leadership and achievement.

In 1948 the boy from Plains won the state farm mechanic award. Last year under his guidance the Plains chapter copped the Georgia Achievement Award. Billy Howard has been president of almost every organization that exists in his school and in his church. Besides that, he's an "A" student.

He hasn't missed a state FFA convention for five years or a national convention for four. For three years in a row he has been an official Georgia delegate.

In four years of farming he has earned almost $4,000—from cotton, corn, peanuts, hogs and cattle. Right now he's studying agriculture at Abraham Baldwin College at Tifton.

The thing that kept Billy from becoming national FFA president was that this year was not the South's turn.

The honor that came to him was not the only achievement of the Georgia group. Valdosta's livestock-judging team performed creditably. Others in the delegation were recognized for advancement up the FFA ladder of degrees.

Nor was the 1951 honor to Georgia the first to come this way. The Blakely FFA Chapter received the Gold Emblem Award in the national chapter contest last year. The Talbotton-Woodland Chapter has the distinction of having won the Gold Emblem for three consecutive years, 1945-47.

Those are but examples of the kind of work done in Georgia by vocational agriculture through FFA.

Leadership and achievement—those are the qualities which paid off for Billy Howard at Kansas City this week. Leadership—the ability to influence people, to move them to do things. Achievement—the follow-through, the goal gained, the pay-off.

Those are two fine properties to have when they are used for good. (They can be used for bad, you know.) It's fine to know that the FFA and the 4-H are developing the talents and skills of Georgia farm youth in a way that means better farms, better homes, a better life, a better state.

We congratulate FFA Vice-President Billy Howard. We commend the leaders of the program of which he is a part and product.

A Salute to B'nai B'rith

B'nai B'rith, oldest and largest Jewish service organization, today begins celebration of its 108th anniversary.

Founded by 12 idealists, it is today a large and active organization devoted to democracy and its principles. It embraces a membership of almost half a million men, women and young people throughout the world. Its meaning is brotherhood, and it exists to serve.

Its motto is to help the other fellow. This, too, is done through its welfare, cultural and religious departments. It has participated in service work, regardless of creed, in all communities where it is found. It has devoted much of its energy to exposing and combatting intolerance and bigotry, to promotion of intergroup understanding, through its Anti-Defamation League, youth organizations, and vocational bureau, and its work for Israel, newest of the world's democracies.

We join in the world-wide salute to a valuable and able organization.

Taxes Are Buying Your Security

Our taxes are going up again. Nobody likes them and in free America we can grumble about them.

The compromise bill agreed upon by the House and Senate is not a perfect one. For one thing, it falls far short of putting the government on a pay-as-you-go footing in the defense program. This deficit financing will add fuel to the flames of inflation.

These increases are war taxes. They are buying our security and guaranteeing our right to be free. They are assisting other nations of the world to remain free, but, in the final analysis, our aid to these nations is also a guarantee of our own security.

We have a right to grumble about taxes. We have a right to demand that waste, extravagance, theft, and inefficiency be eliminated. We have a right to beef about corruption. However, to keep that right we must pay the taxes which are insuring it.

Even with taxes what they are, where else can people still buy new automobiles, television sets, refrigerators, and washing machines? Where else can they afford them? Where else can people buy the food they need, see the shows they wish to see, join in the sports they like without government interference?

We will grumble. Yet we will pay the taxes because we like these things and they are threatened.

Next time we may remember to keep our country strong at all times and thus pay less taxes as a reward for vigilance.

Double Taxes

The Editors: It is well known the big bomber plant at Marietta is trying its best to make available planes for the boys fighting for us, and every dollar the plant receives is United States Treasury tax money, collected from everybody everywhere. Now comes the revenue commissioner and wants to collect another three cents tax on money already paid by taxes and believes it justified.

I share the belief of many that this attitude is utterly inhuman, and mothers, veterans and all of us should unite and fight this latest outrage, and show our boys over there and the ones on duty here that we in Georgia are willing to help them and watch that they get a square deal back here at home. Spring Place Slighted

The Editors: Martin's column Sunday regarding the proposed restoration of the Chief Vann house was of much interest to me. But—when he said it is "near Chatsworth." I wondered why he didn't say it is at Spring Place!

Spring Place may not be as well known to the average Georgian as Chatsworth, but since it was prominent in early Georgia history I do not think it should be forgotten. (It is my understanding that Spring Place is the second oldest town in Georgia, but I have not verified this.)

One thing more anent the history of the Chief Vann house, wasn't John Howard Payne imprisoned in the dungeon of the house and wasn't it there that he wrote the immortal "Home Sweet Home?"

Columbus Day

The Editors: I rode to Marietta today. It was a beautiful day; the square in the center of town was filled with all kinds of vehicles and the people were swarming around like bees, all doing their week-end marketing, shopping. The air was warm and balmy even though October. It was late in the afternoon, the big sun, red and round, was slowly sinking in the West among billows of beautiful multicolored clouds. The clock high up on the courthouse steeple began to strike six; the chimes in the church tower a block away began to play "Nearer My God to Thee." Suddenly with a screech, a big engine pulling a long train of cars passed rapidly on the tracks a block west and the air was filled with black smoke which drifted across the sun.

Altogether it was an inspiring sight, and I wondered what Columbus would have thought about it all, if he could have seen it. It really was food for thought and we have come a long way. I think he would have been very proud—I was proud and glad to be a part of America, his discovery.

Folks Need Reminding

The Editors: In your editor's note you pick me up and set me down in the pasture on the other side of the fence. Good! Over there I found out what some other people know about speed laws of Georgia. Aroused curiosity, you know.

Saturday I took the family two-wheel, one-manpower station wagon on a supposed weekly grocery shopping tour; then asked 40 auto drivers in supermarket parking lots about the maximum speed legally allowed on Georgia highways. Five of them knew it. One fellow had paid a fine to learn it. Four (one man, three women) had learned about it in your editor's note to my letter to The Constitution. The fellow said, "They shore tol' er hot rod feller, name o' Seas, who kicked 'bout curves not bein' banked right fo' speeding'." But let's get back to figures.

My poll would indicate your little note taught 10 out of 100 of your readers speed law figures. That's 100 out of 1,000, and so on. That's service! But people need reminding about speed laws in figures repeatedly. Do it—oftener.

Atlanta. WM. J. SEAS.

Editor's Note: At Mr. Seas' suggestion, we repeat, Georgia's legal speed limit is 55 miles per hour.

Brunswick Stew, Georgia Style

WASHINGTON—Estimates of Georgia delegation members now is that Congress will not adjourn before the end of the month. The final quitting date has been progressively moved forward ever since the House returned from its recess over Labor Day.

Originally a tentative adjournment had been set for Oct. 1, but unfinished work on the legislative calendar caused this to be advanced to the middle of the month. Now it is pretty well conceded on all sides that Congress will be lucky to finish its business by Nov. 1.

One of the causes of delay has been the new administration tax bill, which has consumed a great deal of time in conference between the two houses. Sen. Walter F. George, as chairman of the top-ranking Senate finance committee which reported out the legislation in the upper chamber, has had difficulty in ironing out differences with the House. He is the head of the Senate conferees on the measure. The Georgia senator has insisted that the new tax levies be held down to a minimum and has served notice on the administration that this is the last tax increase he will support, unless the country is faced with an all-out war situation.

Senator George has been trying to hold the tax bill down to no more than $5,500,000,000 or $6,000,000,000 increase, as against a request for $10,000,000,000 additional revenue by the administration.

To Come Home After adjournment Georgia members plan to return to their homes in the state for an indefinite stay. On the whole it has been a strenuous session, dating back to last January. The heavy calendar has kept most of them constantly on the scene in Washington.

Brunswick stew, long a favorite dish at Georgia barbecues and political gatherings, has been introduced in an appropriate setting at the nation's capitol by Rep. Henderson Lanham of Rome.

The Seventh District congressman was prompted to put on a demonstration of what real Georgia Brunswick stew is like after attending a dinner at one of Washington's leading restaurants recently which featured the delicacy on its menu. It was a dinner in honor of the Georgia delegation in Congress, but all of those present agreed that the Brunswick stew served was anything but.

The portion served so offended Representative Lanham that he arranged for the real article to be sent to him in Washington by Reece Johnston of Rome, who commercially cans Brunswick stew made from a recipe used in Floyd County for years. The recipe was developed by the late Tom Peyton of Rome, who, according to Mr. Lanham, cooked most of the stews and barbecues for people in that area for years. Mr. Johnston sent up a case of the canned product and Representative Lanham took over the speaker's private dining room at the Capitol as an appropriate place to give a luncheon. He invited all members of the Georgia delegation and a few other dignitaries to take part in the feast. All agreed that it was food fit for a king—quite foreign to the products dished out to them at the restaurant.

Stew Experts The Georgia delegation counts at least two experts on the subject in its numbers. Rep. Sidney Camp of Newnan and Rep. Prince Preston of Statesboro have reputations for being able to put together about as fine a Brunswick stew as is made. Both are rated excellent cooks.

Contrary to a popular impression held in some circles, Brunswick stew, according to Representative Camp, does not take its name from Georgia's coastal city, but originated at Brunswick, Germany, a century or more ago. His favorite recipe calls for cooking a pig's head with an equal weight of chicken and ground beef; that is, 50 per cent pig's head or fresh pork, 40 per cent chicken and 10 per cent beef. After the meat is cooked an equal weight of vegetables is prepared in the following percentages: 40 per cent corn, 50 per cent tomatoes and 10 per cent onions. Okra also can be used under his formula.

The vegetables are cooked in the juice left over from the meat. Then the two are mixed together and seasoned according to taste with salt, pepper, Worcester sauce, lemon juice and sliced lemon, care being taken to give the portion the right consistency of a stew.

Mr. Camp reports that after his recipe was published recently Georgia houses putting up Brunswick stew in cans were flooded with orders from a number of states over the country. There are several such manufacturing plants in Georgia, all putting out a splendid product, he declared.

Why Be Mealy-Mouthed

Senator Benton hopefully concedes that if Senator McCarthy is sent to jail (for perjury), his resolution calling for expulsion of the Wisconsin firebrand from the Senate "becomes somewhat academic."

Why be mealy-mouthed about it? Why not come right out and say that it is easier to get a senator into jail than to get him out of the U. S. Senate?

MANCHESTER MERCURY

Freedom Can Be Lost

Like all good things that are enjoyed over a long period of time, freedom of the press has come to be taken for granted by the American people, along with their other freedoms.

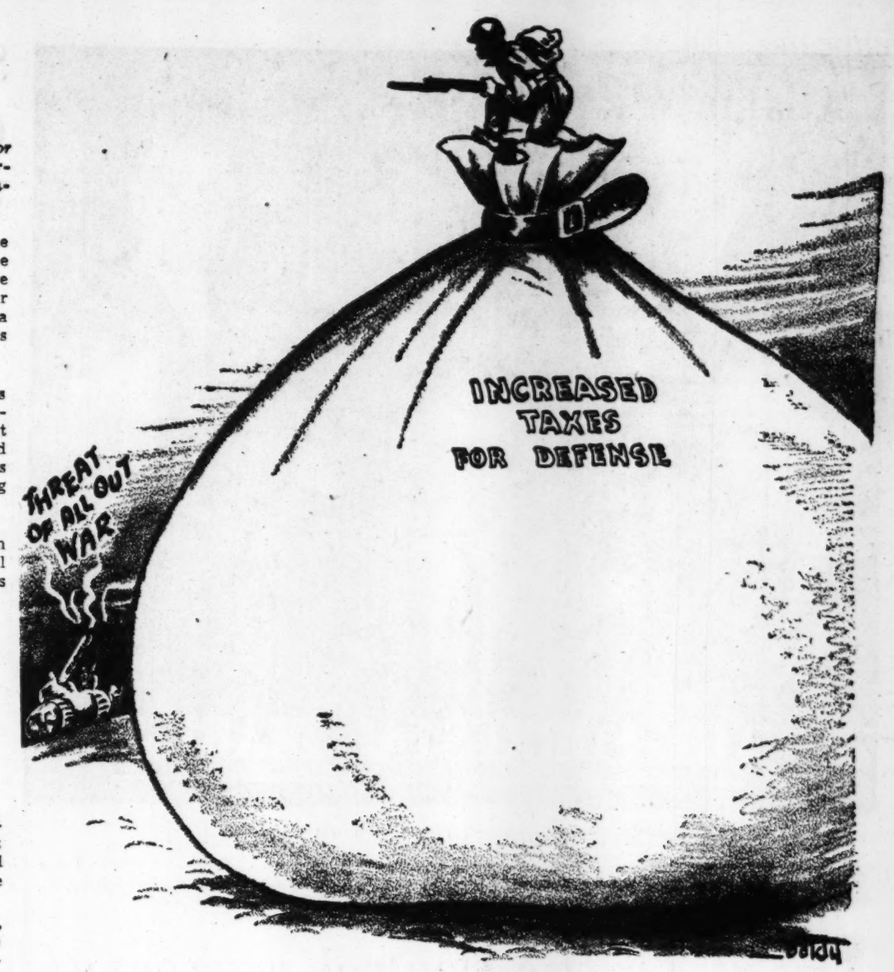

We don't expect that freedom of the press would live behind the "Iron Curtain" in Russia and the Soviet-dominated satellites. We grow a little alarmed when we read of the great South American newspaper, "La Prensa," being snuffed out because it did not bow down to the Argentine dictator, Peron.

But what should make us really quake in our boots is that "it can happen here." In fact, it HAS happened here in these United States. In Louisiana, a courageous newspaper and its staff have been threatened with fines and possible imprisonment because they dared to join with a group of alarmed citizens to fight corruption in their town.

Crooked politicians and big-time crime are always on the alert to knife a newspaper that has the courage and the ability to fight corruption wherever it finds it . . . and they have had some success in America, even in Georgia.

Without freedom of the press, how long could our other traditional freedoms—freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from slavery and subjugation—survive?

Freedom of the press has already sustained losses. That it should regain these losses and be again as vigorous as in the brave days of our founding fathers should be the concern of every American.

Commanding Ground

LEO AIKMAN

An Interesting Old Bottle Field

This week 172 years ago a reckless Lithuanian died at 31 on board a U. S. warship at Savannah, one among millions of young men who over the broad years have given their lives for liberty. Almost two centuries later the National Park Service in Washington was ready to send another man, same age, to a post of duty at the fort which bears the name of the hero from the Slavic land across the sea. The soldier was Count Casimir Pulaski. The NPS technician was me. Fortunately for this upland lad, who at that time had neither seen or smelt the sea, the government switched the assignment to Kennesaw Mountain. Not that I have anything against Savannah. I love the place and I have more than a casual interest in Fort Pulaski. But by birth, environment and training, I was far better equipped to cope with the woods fires, redbugs and Yankee tourists at Kennesaw than with the sand spurs, water shortage and miasmic swamps at Cockspur Island. On Sunday, Oct. 14—that's tomorrow—that island in the estuary at Savannah will be the mecca of hundreds of historically minded who turn out in observance of Pulaski Day.

Casimir Pulaski, usually identified as Polish, was born in Lithuania in 1748. Before he was old enough to go to the polls—if the Poles could have gone to the polls, which they couldn't—Pulaski was in on a plot to capture the king. Branded as a public enemy, he fled to America and joined up with George Washington's Army. He organized his own legion during that "Polish winter" at Valley Forge. The Pulaski contingent came south to fight. Its colorful leader was wounded Oct. 9, 1779, at Savannah and died a few days later aboard the warship Wasp.

THE MONUMENT to Pulaski on Cockspur Island was born at least 30 years too late. Workmen spent 18 years laying 25,000,000 bricks to build a fort. And then the Federals came along in 1862 with their rifled cannon and pounded a good many of those brick into dust. Under attack, Fort Pulaski held out for only 30 hours.

Martha Shingler tells that story in a Pulaski Day yarn in The Savannah Morning News. She tells, too, how the Park Service has restored the moats which are a part of the defenses and of the hundreds of artifacts which have been fished from the moats and from the cavernous cisterns. These articles—bottles, tools, etc.—are relics of the days when the fort was garrisoned. Carefully catalogued under the eye of Custodian Ralston Lattimore, they will be exhibited in the museum.

In the bottle field there are containers for pickles, peppers, alcoholic drinks, wines, bitters, mineral waters, soda water, and ink—26 sizes and shapes of ink bottles alone. The evidence is that the soldiers at Pulaski drank as much patent medicine as they did liquor and that the officers, too, carelessly tossed "dead soldiers" into the moat. Some of those dug up once held champagne and Scotch.

A ONE-MAN ARMY once captured Ft. Pulaski, according to a Frank Rossiter tale in the Savannah paper.

In the middle of the night when the draw bridges were all drawn, every portcullis down tight and the hatches battened, a reporter stripped to his "union suit," swam the moat, and effected an entrance in the way which still has the NPS puzzled.

When Park Service personnel unlocked the place next morning, the reporter was seated at custodian's desk.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Rebellion on Welfare Rolls

NEW YORK—The unanimous vote of the Governors at their conference in Gatlinburg, Tenn., to demand for the states control of their own "relief" administrations, including their right to publish the names of all who receive the public charity and the amounts, is a rebellion against the impudent tyranny of Congress. The Federal Social Security Act imposes on the several states a confidential obligation which permits grafters, ne'er-do-wells, drunkards and trollops to enjoy subsidies for vicious conduct at the expense of decent citizens. A she-tramp with a habit of bearing casual children dumps them on the public rolls without limit as to numbers other than her own capacity and lives on the proceeds of her misconduct. A husband and wife conspire that he shall pretend to abandon her and she may collect relief without having to prove that he has checked out or prosecute him for nonsupport.

If he sneaks home the back way in the dark of the moon, the pair of them may make a go of it on charity. He needn't be too furtive about it, either, for many of the professional leeches who administer this corrupt racket measure their effectiveness by the size of their clientele.

The Republican legislature of Indiana passed a law last March, overriding the veto of a New Deal Governor, requiring the County Welfare Departments to publish quarterly lists of those who receive old-age assistance and aid to dependent children and the amounts paid in respect to each individual. The law provides that these records must be open for public inspection.

Lester Hunt, a reporter on the staff of the Indianapolis Star, directed a crusade for this law and put it through, with the editorial backing of a management which sometimes wallows in the political swills but also sometimes shows startling evidence of principle. When Hunt began his campaign he found many Democrats on his side, some of whom wanted to go even further than his proposals.

The Federal Security Administration ordered that if Indiana maintained this position the Federal grant-in-aid would be withheld.

The answer of the Indiana legislature to that threat, a legal threat, by the way, under the grand design of the Roosevelt conspiracy, was to assume the extra burden and plan toward the future when the secrecy will be licked by demand of states which have been systematically robbed all these years by the lowest bums in their population, including sons and daughters of elderly persons who flatly refuse to carry their moral and legal obligations to their parents. Meanwhile, by knocking the deadbeats off the rolls, Indiana will pare down the total by millions of dollars a year and the example to other states probably will embolden them to do more or less likewise.

In the Gatlinburg conference the Governors unanimously agreed Congress must change the law permitting each state to make its own decision for or against publicity.

"Our attorney general told the Governor that the state law did not compel Ewing to cut us off from federal grants-in-aid," Hunt writes. "He said Ewing could rule with us as well as he could rule against us. But, if Ewing did rule for us, other states would surge forward with similar laws and Ewing's empire, held together by his secret spending of tax money and his dictatorial powers, would collapse. If Indiana wins, federal control is set back on its heels and this welfare philosophy collapses. It should not cost Indiana more to pay her own way without federal grants because the economies that will be effected through public inspection of the welfare rolls will offset the amounts denied us by Ewing. Already the cost has dropped about 10 percent through fear of publicity. With a little tightening up, it will go down another 25 percent. The attacks of the Star, thus far, have saved the state about $5,000,000 in expenditures."

At the Governors' Conference, Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, said his state could cut her old-age pension costs by two-thirds by a law requiring publication of names and amounts.

JOHN MARVIN RAST

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth him that sent me, hath eternal life, and cometh not into judgment, but hath passed out of death into life." (John 5:24)

Bishop Berggrav of Norway asserts that the Christian has two weapons, the Word and suffering.

We may consider both weapons for defense and offense.

The Word of God breathes comfort and security. It pushes back horizons which but for its assurances would hem us in.

At the same time it nerves us for valiant witnessing in the Master's name. It is, as it claims for itself, an instrument "quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword."

As for suffering, it may be difficult to see in it a weapon at all. But rightly related to God and His designs, it is a purifier of all whom it touches and a constraining force for righteousness.

OUR FATHER, WHOSE NATURE is always to have mercy, always to sustain, uphold us now. Establish us in the truth of Thy Holy Gospel.

A hymn sing at 2 p. m. will follow a basket dinner at noon. This day will mark the beginning of a two-week revival meeting, closing on Oct. 26. Evangelist Ralph Clark will speak on "The Mighty Mite" Sunday night.

Religious Movie

A religious movie will be shown at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the Stewart Avenue Methodist Church. The Rev. Fred L. Glisson is pastor. The Rev. D. C. Starnes will be guest preacher at 11 a. m. services.

Membership Gain

The 2,608 Southern Baptist churches in Georgia report a combined membership gain of 26,361 during 1950, a 4.2 percent increase when compared with the 1949 membership of 649,434, bringing the 1950 total membership to 675,795 .

Small town churches showed the greatest percentage growth during 1950 with a 9.2 percent increase, besting country and city churches which have higher memberships but not so much gain.

Koreans Armed by U.S. Likely To Replace GIs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(INS)—A top Pentagon official revealed Friday that the U. S. is working on a program to replace its fighting men in Korea gradually with American-armed native troops in one or two years.

Maj. Gen. George H. Olmsted, Defense Department director of military aid, raised the prospect for the first time that the U. S. may be able to "phase out" of Korea.

Olmsted told a group of editors that the U. S. is "12 to 24 months" away from "concrete results" in the replacement program. He made it clear that the program is a long-range one to meet a prolonged Korean war.

The general briefed the editors just before they left Washington by plane on a three-week European tour during which they will interview Gen. Eisenhower and other leading military and Government officials.

Olmsted drew a parallel between the Armed Allies which America has gaine on Communism's European perimeter and those eventually to stand on the frontiers of Red China's military might.

He said the number of men under arms in Europe has doubled since Korea, with a cost to the U. S. of only one-twentieth of the expense of similar forces at home.

Olmsted declared that Eisenhower's command eventually will embrace armies comparable in size to America's total mobilized force in World War II.

"Although Olmsted mentioned no specific countries, it was assumed that the program to reestablish the Far Eastern military balance will include these steps:

1. Heavy American equipment will be provided for a permanent Korean force even after the fighting stops.

2. There will be a carefully measured rearmament of Japan to offset Red China's millions.

3. A vast increase will be authorized in the already big-scale military assistance America is giving to the French-led forces in Indochina.

4. Additional measures may be possible when Ambassador Chester Bowles completes his urgent mission to regain the favor of India and surrounding countries.

Only One Man Eager To Make 10 Percent

DENVER, Oct. 12—(AP)—An automobile company offered to buy pennies at a premium, giving a dime for nine pennies and $1 for 90.

Twenty special police were hired to handle crowds. They weren't needed—only one man showed up Friday morning. He handed over nine pennies for a shiny new dime.

Truman Pledges To Keep Helping 'Captive' Nations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—President Truman said Friday the United States will keep on trying to bring freedom to Russian satellite nations as long as he is President.

Mr. Truman made the statement to 20 delegates from the American Hungarian Federation. They called at the White House to urge him to denounce Hungary's Communist government "before the world as violators of the universal declaration of human rights."

The President said he had hoped after the Yalta and Potsdam conferences that the people of Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia—as well as all other peoples—would enjoy "the same individual liberties which we enjoy."

He said he was sorry to say it didn't turn out that way, and then added:

"We are going to continue our efforts to see if we can't get freedom in those countries as we enjoy it here."

Mr. Truman spoke with leaders of the federation, made up of religious, fraternal and other organizations whose members are of Hungarian ancestry, in the White House rose garden.

The delegation presented Mr. Truman with a scroll thanking him for his July 27 statement denouncing the Hungarian Red government for mass internments and deportations of citizens.

They expressed the hope the U. S. would lay the matter before the United Nations assembly at its meeting next month.

The group said in a statement that it has learned approximately 165,000 persons regarded as "undesirable" by Hungary's government are scheduled to be interned. It added that more than 70,000 Hungarians had been taken to Russian slave labor camps as of last April.

Report Corrected On Testimony

Mrs. T. B. Ham, an employee of the State Tag Department whose testimony figured in the compensation case of a co-worker, Mrs. Ruby Gordon Wheeler, never at any time testified that she assisted Mrs. Wheeler during a heart attack, state records showed Friday.

A story in Friday's Constitution which stated that Mrs. Ham swore she witnessed Mrs. Wheeler's heart attack on Nov. 7, 1950, should have read that Mrs. Ham swore she had not witnessed her co-worker's illness.

According to records of testimony taken by the Workmen's Compensation Board before it denied Mrs. Wheeler's petition for compensation, Mrs. Ham testified that she was out of the office on Nov. 7, serving as an election official in South Kirkwood.

DeKalb Police Department Warns Football 'Double-Header' Speeders

DeKalb Police Chief Hoyt Sutton Friday issued a stern warning to football enthusiasts who may intend to make the Tech game in Atlanta Saturday and then attend the night game at Athens.

"Most county roads are zoned for 35 miles per hour," Sutton said. "We don't intend to operate a speed trap out here—but we want our highways kept safe.

"The roads will be heavily patrolled Saturday. Those found speeding will be given copies of charges to appear in Decatur City Court. Those driving under the influence of intoxicants will go to jail."

Another Method Of Getting Power From Sun Found

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Department of Scientific Research of Cuyo University announced Friday that two scientists have found a new way to get energy and power from sunshine.

The only explanation offered was discovery of a form of energy intermediate between atomic and chemical energy. It was said this new energy works on the old principle that black absorbs more heat than white. No clues were given as to what might be intermediate between atomic and chemical energy.

The Cuyo work was credited to Wolfgang Ehrenbergh, a refugee German scientist, and his Argentine collaborator, Aturo E. Corte. The announcement said their idea if applied to the ice fields in the Andes mountains, would control thawing and the flow of rivers.

The difference between atomic and chemical energy have been considered as the source from which they came — one from atomic nuclei—the other from the electrons circling these nuclei. The energies coming from either have been considered identical.

Ansley Park Bus To Keep Running

Continued trackless trolley service for Ansley Park residents was promised Friday night by Alderman Dowse Donaldson and Councilman John A. White, of the Fifth Ward.

The decision followed a conference, during which residents of the area protested a projected disruption of the service in view of an ordinance which would have barred the trolleys from a Seventeenth St. stretch extending from the Prado to Inman Circle.

Donaldson, who is chairman of council's Public Works Committee, which approved the ordinance Thursday, said he will ask council Monday to refer it back to his committee for further study.

Residents on the Seventeenth St. stretch previously had complained that the huge buses shake their homes and make them almost untenable.

Athens Postmaster

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Senate Friday confirmed nomination of Hillyer C. King as postmaster at Athens, Ga.

JESSUP

sembly of the United Nations opening on Nov. 6 in Paris.

The Senate by the Constitution has the right to confirm or reject—by simple majority vote—all such diplomatic nominations. Its inaction, however, permits the President to make what are called "recess," or short-term, appointments, which allow a nominee to serve.

In Dr. Jessup's case it is assumed that the work of Paris will be finished within a few weeks. To shelve his appointment in the Senate would not directly affect that work, but it would leave unresolved the grave accusations against the Ambassador made by Sen. McCarthy, (Rep., Wis.), and Harold E. Stassen.

The strong prospect that Jessup's fitness would be left without Senate verdict arose coincident with a new attack on him and on the State Department by Stassen, a former Republican governor of Minnesota and now president of the University of Pennsylvania.

Before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, to which he first had raised his charges that Jessup participated in a "pattern" of policy that favored the China Communists ver the Nationalists, Stassen returned to the assault Friday morning.

He asserted that the transcript of an October, 1949, roundtable conference of outsiders at the State Department confirmed, rather than refuted, his accusations that the meeting had been dominated by Prof. Owen Lattimore and Lawrence Rosinger and had produced a soft line toward the Communists that Jessup had later carried on.

In releasing this hitherto secret transcript yesterday, the State Department had asserted that it destroyed all Stassen's charges.

The document showed that at least 13 of the participants and some of them businessmen—or a majority of the 25 persons called in—had favored or regarded as necessary a United States recognition of Communist China.

It showed also that they had taken this view in the face of a briefing on the first day of the conference by W. Walton Butterworth, then the State Department official directly in touch with China Affairs, that his government was urging its friends to be skeptical about recognition and suggesting that it might not be desirable at all.

Stassen offered to the Internal Security subcommittee, however, an "analysis" of the transcript which he contended established that he had been right.

Specifically, he had originally charged, and now repeated, that Lattimore, of Johns Hopkins University, and Rosinger, then a representative of the American Institute of Pacific Relations, had recommended ten points of policy and these had been followed by the State Department and Jessup.

peace-loving nation intentions as unfounded as they are absurd."

The Department charged that Moscow attempted to justify the separation of Italian defense from that of the free world with "specious and false arguments."

"Presumably," the statement went on, "by such argumentation the Soviet Union would contemplate for Italy a status of subjugation comparable to that of its satellites in Eastern Europe.

"As Secretary Acheson declared recently, the United States government does not propose to be deterred by such propaganda from its effort to find the way to recognize Italy's new stature and its right to participate with the other free nations in working for international peace and security."

J. M. Garner Heads Mercer Drive Here

Atlanta realtor Judson M. Garner will head the Atlanta division of Mercer University's $600,000 Spright Dowell School of Education endowment fund campaign as general chairman, Dr. Louie D. Newton, honorary state chairman, announced Friday.

J. P. Finnegan To Surrender This Morning

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12—(U.P.)—James P. Finnegan, former revenue collector here who has been charged with accepting bribes and violating a Federal tax law, will surrender at 10 a. m., CST, Saturday, the U. S. marshal's office announced Friday.

It was expected that Finnegan would post the $5,000 bond fixed by U. S. District Judge George H. Moore after his surrender in the Federal Building where he had his office as collector.

A five-count grand jury indictment, returned in Judge Moore's court Thursday, accused the 50-year-old ex-collector and political crony of President Truman of taking money "directly and indirectly" from a St. Louis garment firm to "influence his decision" in reducing the firm's taxes.

Larry Bell Ends Visit

Larry Bell, head of Bell Aircraft Corp., who was in charge of Marietta's Bell Bomber plant during World War II, ended a two-day visit in Marietta Friday with former associates James V. Carmichael and Rip Blair.

Both Carmichael and Blair were associated with Bell in production of B-29s at the Marietta plant. Carmichael is now executive vice president of Lockheed Aircraft's Georgia Division. Blair is a Marietta furniture manufacturer.

Bell Friday recalled the "fine operation" of his plant here and asked to be remembered to Atlanta friends. He reported his corporation, with Buffalo, N. Y., headquarters, is currently busy with rockets, jets and guided missiles.

FBI Aids Probe Of Auto Thefts At Fort Benning

The Atlanta FBI office is cooperating with military and local police in an investigation of Army automobiles reported stolen from Fort Benning, John Bills, special agent in charge of the Atlanta office, disclosed Friday.

Bills said two Macon men, Edward Bashuk, 52, operator of the Dixie jobbing house in Macon, and Hugh Edward Chrismas, were arrested on charges of theft of Government property Oct. 6. Subsequently Bills reported, Fort Benning authorities arrested two Army men. Names of the military personnel were not revealed.

Bills said only one automible was mentioned in the charges, but added that "other cars" had been reported missing from Fort Benning. The number of missing cars was not disclosed.

Bashuk has been released under $6,000 bond. Christmas is under $500 bond.

U.S. Jails Trio, Fine 18 Others In Vote Frauds

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 12—(AP)—The Federal Government struck a heavy blow at vote frauds in this seaport city Friday by sending three leaders of a ballot box stuffing ring to prison.

Federal Judge Daniel H. Thomas assessed fines totaling $7,800 against all of the 21 Mobile defendants in the vote fraud conspiracy case, and gave most of the group probationary sentences. The 21 pleaded either guilty or nolo contendere (no defense).

Peter V. Crolich, Sr., cafe operator and the man the Government accused of master-minding the ring's activities, drew the heaviest sentence—18 months in prison and a $2,000 fine.

Two other cafe operators, Ray W. Fairchild and C. J. Holman, were sentenced to one year and one day in prison and fined $750 each.

Fire Destroys Barn On Golf Course Here

Fire late Friday destroyed a barn on the John A. White golf course in West End. Police said the barn housed tractors, mowing machines and other equipment used at the park. The equipment was saved.

The victim was treated at Grady Hospital for head injuries and then booked for jaywalking and accident, Sgt. J. P. Eaves and Ptl. R. E. Avery said. No charge was made against the driver, Willie Porter, 31, Negro, of 102 Maple St.

Officers said the victim's daughter, Georgia Mae Britt, was struck down by the same driver, in the same location, exactly one year ago to the day.

Ralph Edward O'Kelly, 31, of 1494 Westwood Ave., S. W., a mechanic at the Conley Ordnance Depot, and his wife, Mrs. Annie Louise O'Kelly, 24, were slightly injured in an auto accident on Fairburn Road at the Mt. Gilead Church. Both were treated at Grady for cuts and bruises.

SWALLOWS PLATE

cleared before adjournment could set in.

Nearly every billion of dollars, approved or pending, was more than three months "overdue." Most of the appropriations cover expenditures of the current fiscal year which started July 1. Departments and agencies have been kept alive through temporary extensions of "drawing account" authority. There have been four extensions to date.

LATE START

The 82nd Congress got a late start. It took a long time to organize. The executive department—which makes the requests for money—was tardy, especially with its estimates on military costs, and on supplementary needs. There has been a steady run of new requests for funds.

It appeared Friday night that the bill for the monetary cost of warfare in Korea, which was not included in the nearly $57,000,000,000 of Defense Department appropriations cleared Friday, would be withheld until after the second session convenes in January.

As presented to the Senate the final draft fell, as to total appropriations, more than $2,000,000,000 under the figure approved previously by that body. It was approved without contest.

A fight over government "press agents" occurred as Sen. Ferguson (Rep., Mich.) sought to restore to the $1,042,000,000 State-Justice-Commerce-Judiciary measure a provision which the Senate-House conferees had deleted. Sponsored by Sen. Byrd (Dem., Va.), chairman of the joint committee on reduction of non-essential Federal expenditures, the abandoned provision would have cut the payrolls for such work by 25 percent.

At issue was a question that had been before Congress for a long time. Some members have deemed such services to be vital to the running of a free government with the aid of a free press. Others have viewed the services as "propaganda," "an over-emphasized exploitation of matters favorable to the Administration," and "a bottling up of facts that might prove to be embarrassing."

Virginia Field Weds Actor Willard Parker

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 12—(AP)—Blonde Virginia Field, British-born movie actress, was married Friday night to actor Willard Parker in a three-minute ceremony.

Miss Field's only attendant was her daughter by a former marriage, 6-year-old Maggie Douglas.

BEAVER

of Oct. 1, also withheld from publication by the board, said that his group advocates:

1. Limitation of scholarships.
2. Elimination of the two-platoon system.
3. Elimination of Spring practice.

"If there are shortcomings in our athletic activities, we should make a prompt and sustained effort to remedy them," Beaver said Friday. "That there are shortcomings in these procedures is evidenced by the views heretofore expressed by regents and by the unanimous testimony of the responsible presidents and their staffs of the two institutions concerned. I submit that we should be more concerned with following the judicious recommendations of our presidents and faculty members in providing the proper environment for, and encouragement to, our Georgia boys and girls than in any temporary popular or political approval. One of our executives states that some overly enthusiastic alumni and friends 'contribute to an environment undesirable for young people.'"

Of his move to let the college presidents and staffs carry out their own recommendations already made and implement them with others, Beaver commented:

"To this procedure not even our over-enthusiastic alumni ultimately should object, for it will mean the expansion of our intra-mural physical education program with the immediate benefit to our students; and it will also take the pressure off our unusually fine head coaches before a bad season causes one or both to leave us."

Saturday Sound and Fury

It will be Saturday morning, and it will seem that the sun is shining brighter than on any of the other six days of the week. And around the campus walks steps will be quickened and the air will be charged. There will be other Saturdays like it, but they won't have this special magic, for they won't be football days.

You can't touch it, and you can't describe the way you feel it, but there's something extra superb about a football Saturday when Autumn is at its ripest moment. You've walked down the street on a crisp Spring or Summer's day and vigorously thumped the chest in Tarzan manner and exclaimed that "This is a real football day!"

BISHER

There is no day and there is no season so permeated with the real zeal for living as the football day and the football season around the campus. When the last ball has been booted and the last sock has been tucked away in the equipment room, there is a retrenchment of college spirit roughly in the manner of man as he crosses into his fifties. The life assumes a dull, drab state of mere education, trimmed now and then with some social living.

This is why the mere idea of this de-emphasis business is frightening. The thought of the campus stripped of the sound and fury and intense spirit of football is no campus at all, but a barren island to me. Emory University has lived and done well without it, but they're accustomed to silent Saturdays out there. I find football a rather important function of our time, whether single-wing, split-T, two-platoon, alumni-bred, simon pure or subsidized.

It's an amazing thing that survives the six days between Saturdays on mushrooming anticipation. No more care and feeding goes into any project in the universe than the two and a fraction hours of actual performance of a football unit. Each play and each game is a major production that requires a definite maneuver by eleven men, each expected to do his job perfectly. The imperfections sell the game.

Blood and Thunder for General

Bob Neyland, himself a fine football end and a first-class baseball pitcher at West Point, stood the two sports side by side one day and measured them in this manner:

"You make a few mistakes in a baseball game," he said, "and they're listed as errors. In football, six or seven mistakes are made on each play. In baseball, every action is routine, the swing, the pitch, the act of fielding the ball. In football, a player must be prepared to meet a new situation on every play he runs."

Neyland himself was and still is the kind of man who loves a good fight. As the degree of bodily contact or mental conflict is lessened in a sport, so is the General's interest in it. Of golf, he says:

"I never could see the idea of striking a white ball with a club, walking 200 yards, give or take a little, and hitting it again. There's no feeling of competition. Even in tennis there is sharp conflict in passing your opponent at the net after maneuvering him out of position. There must be sharp conflict to satisfy the good competitor."

This is the General from shoe sole to short-cropped hair. He loves football for its sound and fury, for its mental and physical conflict. He runs his football school as he would run an Army camp. He is one of the game's very greatest figures.

A Personality of Its Own

One of the General's greatest ex-generals finds himself blinded by the glare of rapt national attention this Saturday. Hardly anybody, including Bobby Dodd himself, anticipated a match of giants as Georgia Tech met with Louisiana State. First off, Tech itself was feeling its way along with a kiddie corps. Suddenly the kids became men and Tech became a giant.

Gus Tinsley, an honest sort of chap, did no camouflage job on the Bayou Tigers. He suggested that if he discovered some guards and tackles, life would not be in vain at Baton Rouge this year. I do remember quite vividly that he spoke in keen tones of Lee Hedges. ("He could beat Bobby Marlow out for his job, if he were at Alabama.") Actually, Hedges hasn't met that schedule yet, though LSU did beat Alabama and Marlow both.

LSU has been riding on the strength of a bulldog line and a fierce running game. Somewhere Tinsley found his guards and tackles, and somehow he gets by with passing of only a fair nature. Similar to the Tinsley tots of destiny in '49, you say.

"No, not that," says Jim Corbett, a publicist and not a prize fighter. He runs the dispensary of athletic information at LSU. "We prefer not to be compared to the '49 team. This team has a personality of its own just as that team did. It had some established stars, like Sam Lyle and Ray Collins and Charley Peavey. This one came out of nowhere."

A comparison will be appreciated only at the end of the season, when the Tiger folks hope this team can compare to the '49 team in wins and losses.

THE SPORTLIGHT

Jackets, Terps Picked In Local Bouts Today

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—Here are the week-end's football selections:

EAST: Army-Dartmouth. Army's big improvement in Northwestern game gives the cadets a good chance. Army.

Columbia-Yale. Just about a tossup, with Columbia having an excellent opportunity.

Pennsylvania-Princeton. One of the big games in the Ivy circuit. Princeton surprised against Navy. Pennsylvania should have slight margin.

Harvard - Cornell. Cornell by good score.

Holy Cross-Tulane. This should be a corker. Holy Cross by an eyelash.

MIDWEST—Notre Dame-S. M. U. Southern Methodist, improving week by week, can be tough. But Notre Dame is the pick.

Michigan-Indiana. Neither too strong. Michigan.

Ohio State - Wisconsin. Close. Ohio State about due.

Michigan State - Marquette. Michigan State the winner.

Iowa - Pittsburgh. Iowa has the call here.

Minnesota-Northwestern. At least Wes Fesler doesn't have to tackle California. Another close one. Northwestern.

Syracuse - Illinois. Illinois in good game.

NYU-Rutgers. Sorry, Hugh Devore, but I'm afraid Rutgers has edge.

SOUTH — Georgia - Maryland. Big Southern test. Georgia good but Maryland looks too strong. Maryland.

Georgia Tech-LSU. Both have won all their games so far. Each has beaten good teams. A conference challenge — Georgia Tech again.

Tennessee - Chattanooga. Tennessee in a gallop.

Kentucky - Mississippi State. Tossups seem to be rather abundant this week. Kentucky and Parilli can't lose them all. Kentucky.

Auburn-Florida. Florida has the nomination.

Mississippi - Vanderbilt. Vanderbilt has been a surprise. Close party. Edge to Mississippi.

Duke-N. C. State. Duke has call.

North Carolina-South Carolina. The northern sector.

Clemson - College of Pacific. Clemson.

Virginia-Washington and Lee. Virginia is the pick.

SOUTHWEST AND FAR WEST—Navy-Rice. Slight edge to Rice at home. Good game.

Texas-Oklahoma. One of the big games of the day. A big bowl party. Texas, in a close test.

Texas A. and M. - Nevada. Texas A. and M. due to keep rolling.

TCU - Texas Tech. Texas Christian gets the call.

California-Washington State. Don't think California will lose this Fall.

Stanford-UCLA. A very tough one. Nod to the Uclans.

I like Southern California over Oregon State, Washington over Oregon and Nebraska over Penn State.

BUTTS SHUFFLES BACKS

Georgia Collides Tonight With Unbeaten Maryland

By GENE ASHER
Constitution Sports Writer

ATHENS, Oct. 12—Maryland's undefeated Terrapins and Georgia's once-beaten Bulldogs clash here Saturday night at 8:15 in what could easily be the South's stellar football attraction of 1951.

Approximately 35,000 fans are expected to see these revenge-minded teams battle. Maryland hopes to avenge a 27-7 trouncing by Georgia last season while the Bulldogs are anxious to bounce back from their 6-0 upset loss last week to Mississippi State.

Maryland Coach Jim Tatum claims to have his finest team in history which includes All-America candidates Bob Ward, 185-pound guard and Ed (Mighty Mo) Modzelewski, 210-pound fullback.

Modzelewski, who started against Georgia last year, shares Southen Conference scoring honors with 24 points. He has raced for four touchdowns and paced the Terps to victories over Washington and Lee (54-15) and George Washington (33-6).

Modzelewski, whose brother, "Little Mo," is a defensive tackle, and right halfback Bob Shemonski are expected to carry the brunt on the running attack while split-T quarterbacks Jack Scarbath, Dick Nolan and Bob DeStefano are the Terps' top passers.

Georgia Coach Wallace Butts rested his squad Friday, taking no chance of additional injuries. Bulldog offensive ends Harry Babcock and Art DeCarlo are both ailing and DeCarlo has not participated in any drills this week.

"We hope to play Maryland on even terms," Butts said late Friday afternoon. "We won't have DeCarlo and Derwent Langley backing up the line like they did last year." Langley and DeCarlo were the defensive standouts of last season's games. DeCarlo, who may see only limited action, will be used at offensive end and Langley has been shelved indefinitely.

Butts will be relying on the passing arm of quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, who was slightly sensational in Georgia's 33-0 shutout win over George Washington and 28-16 triumph over North Carolina.

The Bulldog mentor will start senior Mal Cook at left half and sophomore Charlie Earnest at right half, however, speed merchants Zippy Morocco and Lauren Hargrove should see considerable action.

Giant tackle Dick Steele, 229-pounder, will make his 1951 debut. He has been sidelined with an injured knee.

At 2 p. m. Georgia's freshmen team inaugurates Sanford Stadium's first doubleheader when it takes on the Auburn frosh eleven. Captaining the Bullpup outfit will be Newman's Don Lasseter and Atmore, Ala.'s Charley Madison.

Milton High Falls Before Campbell

By ALTON MAXWELL
Special to The Constitution

ALPHARETTA, Oct. 12—The Campbell Bears knocked off Milton High of Alpharetta here Friday night, 19-13, with a final touchdown late in the fourth quarter.

But it took a lineman's quick thinking in the third period to put Campbell back in the game. With the Bears trailing 7-6, Tackle Sam Baxter broke through and grabbed the ball from Milton's halfback on an attempted handoff and galloped 32 yards for the marker.

ELEPHANTS WIN, 12-0

Gainesville Snaps Decatur's String at 27

By BILL McGROTHA
Constitution Sports Writer

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 12—Gainesville's glory-grabbin' gallants, who last week stopped a 14-game winning streak of Class A Champion Rockmart by 21-0, Friday night gave Decatur's AA titleholders the back of their hand, 12-0, ending a 27-game victory string of the Bulldogs.

It was the fourth straight shutout triumph for the unbeaten Red Elephants, whose goal line has been crossed only once this year. And it was the first time the Elephants have beaten a Decatur team since a 7-6 decision in 1942. Coincidentally, Decatur last failed to score in a game on this field in 1947 when the teams dueled to a 0-0 deadlock. Decatur was last beaten when Fitzgerald won 20-19 in a 1948 playoff for the State A crown.

A sellout crowd estimated at 6,500 whooped it up as the Gainesville players lifted Clayton Deavers, 24-year-old coach of the victors, on their shoulders and carried him happily off the field.

If any balm was to be found for Decatur's pain it was in the statistics, where the Bulldogs outfirst-downed, out-rushed and outpassed the home outfit.

But the score was another story.

A stout Elephant forewall, headed by Tackle Bobby Howard, stopped repeated Decatur thrusts in the shadow of the Gainesville double stripe.

Gainesville tallied first midway the opening quarter. After Bud Cummins brought back a punt to the Decatur 41, the Elephants set sail. Cummins hit Harry Wing with a 25-yard pass to the 20. Charles Healen and Wing bulled it down to the two, where Wing whipped over for the touchdown. Joe Herrin's conversion attempt was blocked.

Billy Vardeman ripped for 30 yards down to the Decatur 26 just as the first quarter ended. Dannelly Logue pounced on a Gainesville fumble at the 27 to halt the drive.

Led by Al Browning's sparkling rushes, Decatur threatened just before halftime. But Howard intercepted a pass, fumbled, and allowed Decatur to recover. But the steam was taken out of the effort and long passes failed as the clock ran out.

MANN TO TRADE HEAVILY

Brewers Get Anderson, Tanner, Liddle, Toth

By JESSE OUTLAR

Transfer of six players to Milwaukee of the American Association was announced Friday by Atlanta Cracker Pres. Earl Mann.

Pitchers Don Liddle, Howard Anderson and Elmer Toth, outfielders Chuck Tanner and Jack Daniels and infielder Harry Hanebrink figured in the deal.

Liddle, Anderson and Tanner were selected by the Boston Braves' for their triple-A club from the immediate Cracker roster. The other three were recalled from Boston's Hartford farm in the Eastern League and assigned to the Brewers.

Southpaw Liddle, Southern Association shutout leader with five, and Anderson accounted for 26 victories between them last season. Liddle had a 14-6 mark, and his ERA of 2.92 ranked third in the circuit. Anderson broke even in 24 games, but had a mediocre earned run average of 4.35.

Tanner, considered a major league prospect by Manager Dixie Walker, stroked a neat .318 for Atlanta in his first year in Double A silks. He was runner-up to Jack Dittmer as the Crackers' leading stickman.

Toth, a gangling right-hander, spent the early part of the campaign with Atlanta. He owned a 3-3 record when shipped to Hartford for further seasoning.

Both Hanebrink and Daniels took Spring training with the Crackers, but were chopped from the roster before the curtain raiser.

Mann, back from New York and the World Series, indicated that Ponce de Leon will be a busy trading market this winter. His efforts to furnish the fans a winning club will result in several new faces in 1952.

Unbeaten Tech Tries New Role As Favorite

Clash With LSU Bengals Draws National Attention

By FURMAN BISHER

A Rambling Wreck from Georgia Tech that crashed the party for Southeastern Conference football notables finds itself in national focus Saturday afternoon as it tries out its entirely new costume of favorite against Louisiana State at Grant Field. Kickoff time is 2:30.

The Techs have not become accustomed to being top dogs this season. They went into their Southern Methodist game on the short side by seven points. They approached the Florida match no better than an even choice. A week ago against Kentucky the people who set the odds still wouldn't believe in them.

But this Saturday, this startling and stupendous football team can no longer wear the disguise of the underdog. The Yellow Jackets are undeniably 14-point favorites over an LSU team that has been only slightly less startling and stupendous itself.

Gus Tinsley, an old Tiger hero himself and still an all-time LSU end, got his team off modestly against Mississippi Southern, 13-0. Next the Tigers plunged into Alabama with much vigor and won a stunning upset, 13-7, over the team that was to finish second only to Tennessee in SEC standings. Last week, the Tigers cooled off to a 7-6 decision over Rice, a team against which they were unable to generate a full-blown offense.

This brings the two teams together in a meeting that ranks as a national attraction, both unbeaten and untied but not unheralded now. Tech earned itself confirmation as a solid team last Saturday in Kentucky, where the Jackets outfoxed and outscored the Wildcats, who were quick with the mitts and elbows but not with the mental maneuver.

This is a situation in which you'll discover what a team's got. As the underdog, Tech's been ahead psychologically each Saturday. Now the pressure is on the Jackets, and Coach Bobby Dodd will find what the team reaction is in such a position.

That makes this a key game in Tech's progress. Over this hump, the Jackets could conceivably rock along without a critical test until Alabama comes up on the calendar on Nov. 17.

LSU is a team that travels at its best on the ground, featuring Jimmy Roshto, Jimmy Barton, Lee Hedges and squat Billy West, the fullback who had never been thrown for a loss until last Saturday. Barton can

The Tech-LSU game Saturday is marked by the return of Bill Munday to the national networks. The famed molasses-voiced sports announcer of Graham McNamee's day will do the local job for Columbia Broadcasting System's football roundup.

Nationally, the game will be broadcast play-by-play by NBC, with Bill Stern at the microphone, locally by the Georgia Tech network with Freddie Miller, and over a Louisiana network with Charles Zenna. The total outlet will number 210 stations.

Yankee Clipper Will Retire From Baseball

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio — the famed Yankee Clipper—left for San Francisco Friday night with the statement that he has played his last game of baseball.

"I have made up my mind to retire and that is my present intention," said DiMag before taking off with teammates Billy Martin and Ed Lopat on the first leg of a tour of Japan. "I have given it considerable thought."

DiMaggio added that he was delaying announcing his final decision out of deference to president Dan Topping of the Yankees with whom he conferred earlier in the day.

Early Miami Score Trims Purdue, 7-0

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 12—(AP)—Purdue gambled recklessly with a fourth down line smash in the first three minutes Friday night and lost the football game when Miami smothered the play and struck quickly for the touchdown that produced a 7-0 victory.

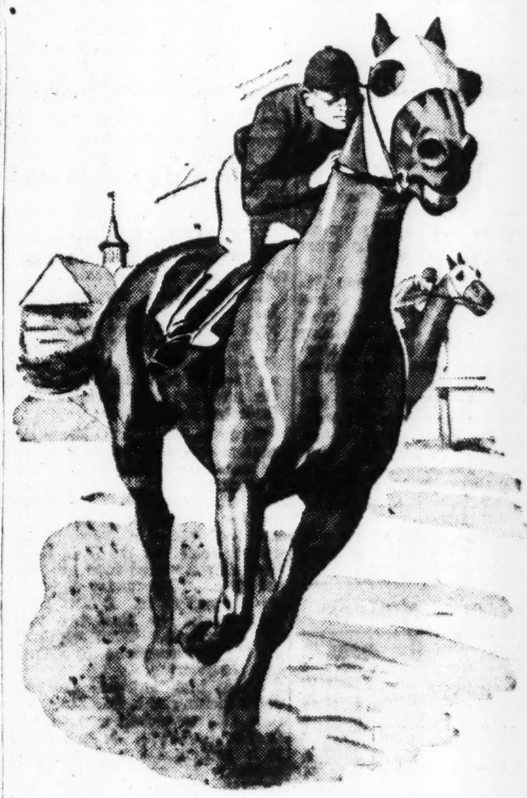

It was fourth down for the Boilermakers on their own 39 with just a foot to go and quarterback Dale Smauels chose to try for it. The dangerous venture failed as Jerry Thorpe, hitting into the left side of the Miami line, was slammed down hard for no gain.

Miami seized its opportunity quickly. After two running plays were halted, the Hurricanes hit for the touchdown with Frank Smith, the fleet halfback who beat Purdue last year with scoring runs of 18 and 50 yards.

Purdue	0	0	0	0	—0
Miami	7	0	0	0	—7

Miami Scoring: Touchdown—Smith. Conversion—Tremont.

Vandy's Edwards Reported Resigning

Nashville Sports Scribe Says Coach Through After Season

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12—(AP)—Bill Edwards is contemplating resigning Saturday as head football coach and athletic director at Vanderbilt University, the Nashville Banner said Friday.

The newspaper in a story by sports editor Fred Russell said the resignation would become effective at the end of the present football season. Vanderbilt plays Ole Miss at Memphis Saturday, but it was not learned whether Edwards would hand in his resignation before or after the game.

Dean Fred J. Lewis, chairman of the Vanderbilt Athletic Committee, told a committee meeting that Edwards plans to resign Saturday unless his contract is renewed at this time. The committee voted to take no action on the matter.

Coach Edwards Friday night denied the report.

"There is nothng to the report," Edwards said. He appeared interested mainly in where the reports originated.

Vanderbilt Dean Fred J. Lewis, chairman of the university athletic committee, said he had "no comment" on the reports.

Edwards' three-year contract with Vanderbilt ends next February. In his first year at Vanderbilt, Edwards' team won five and lost five, last year it won seven and lost four and so far this season has won two and lost one—its latest victory being last Saturday's 22-20 upset of Alabama.

Edwards, a native of Massilon, Ohio, came here after two years of coaching with the Cleveland Browns.

The report was denied in Memphis by Elmore Hudgens, Vanderbilt's director of athletics publicity.

"There is no basis to it and certainly there hasn't been any statement forthcoming from the Vanderbilt Athletic Committee or from coach Edwards," he said.

Ole Miss Favored Over Vandy

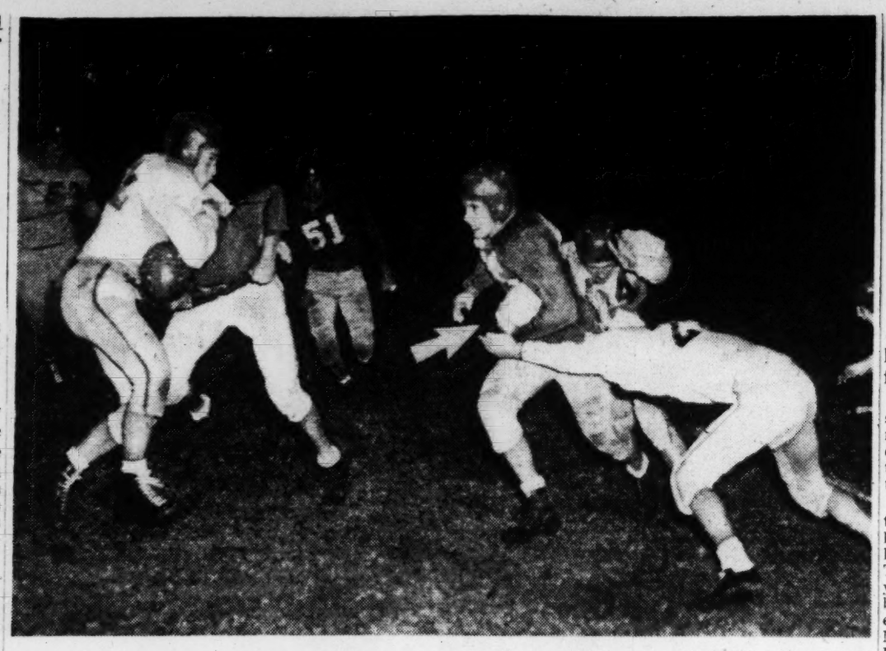

Special to The Constitution

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 12—Vanderbilt and Ole Miss, two pre-Southeastern Conference-season darkhorses who have sprung into giant-killing parts, play Saturday at 2 p. m.

The Rebel is a one to two-touchdown favorite, a prospectus Coach Johnny Vaught sought to allay during the week by calling Vandy "a better team than Kentucky," the team Ole Miss busted, 21-17, in one of the year's bigger upsets.

From a cold viewpoint, Ole Miss seems to be superior in the line, both offensively and defensively, and owns the better running attack with Lea Pasley, Dick Westerman, Wilson Dillard and Showboat Boykin taking handoffs from split-T quarterback Jimmy Lear.

Yet no one is selling Vandy and Bill Wade short after the 22-20 victory the Commodores turned in over Alabama last week. For receivers, ace passer Wade has Ted Kirkland, Ben Roderick and Malcolm Cook, and he has a fair enough off-tackle attack manned by R. C. Allen, Roy Duncan and Dick Foster, who scored 16 points against Alabama.

O'KEEFE ST AMROLLER UNDER WAY—Bobby McCauley lashes 18 yards in the second quarter as a teammate blocks a Brown player. The 'Rebs' Gene Martin makes the tackle. Number 51 is O'Keefe fullback Ronald Brown. Back of McCauley is Crawford Kennedy (54), Brown center.

Irish Shell Brown On Record 55-6

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Sure and begorra, ye'd thought 'twas St. Patrick's Day the way the Fighting Irish of O'Keefe marched up and down Grady Field Friday night, flaunting their vivid green finery and displaying their might by bashing Brown's Rebels, 55-6, the highest score by which a City League football team ever thrashed another.

The lethal blows of the Irish shillalah were all the more startling because they began resounding only after a first quarter in which the Brownies held a decided edge. After that, the dam burst, with the Irish striking right and left for four second-quarter touchdowns. They lashed out once again in the third quarter and ended with a rash of three scoring outbursts in the final go-round.

The Yardstick

O'KEEFE (55)		BROWN (6)
9	First Downs	10
198	Yards Rushing	136
78	Yards Passing	95
60	Yards Penalized	25

All the noises came not from the roar of the unimpeded Irish motor. Just as many came from the Brown machine that backfired every time the Rebs sought to shift into high gear.

It is doubtful that any offense ever backfired so consistently. These are the things that shouldn't happen to a Communist, but did happen to the Rebs:

1. Had five passes intercepted. 2. Had three fumbles recovered by the foe. 3. Had one punt blocked and recovered by enemy.

Pass interceptions were by Bobby Haygood, Franklin Brooks, David Hughes, Raymond Pinyan and Jimmy Nisewonger. Fumble recoveries were by Joe Carman, Joe Beilman and Brooks, the latter playing a highly sensational defensive game. Punt was blocked and recovered by David Hughes. The final two touchdowns came as Pinyan and Nisewonger hauled errant passes 65 and 30 yards, respectively, for the scores.

Brown's lone counter came just before halftime on a 73-yard march. It was principally the product of a 47-yard Lee Hale-to-Bobby Campbell pass, an 11-yard romp by Gene Martin and the 22-yard pay dirt dash by Bobby Vass.

Three of the eight O'Keefe six-pointers were by sensational Joe Beilman. He set up the first with a 30-yard catch, then rammed over from the two. He skirted end for 13 yards and the fourth one, and nabbed a 33-yard Nisewonger aerial for the fifth. Bobby McCauley rammed four for number two. Nisewonger went 16 for number three. Robert Dowling sneaked the final two yards for the sixth. Then came the scoring interceptions by Pinyan and Nisewonger.

A top highlight was the extra point kicking of tackle Larry Durand. Larry kicked true with the first seven to run his string to 12 in a row, but missed in trying unlucky 13 after the final six pointer.

The victory was O'Keefe's second straight in Region 3-AA.

Tech goes to the post severely wounded in the defensive backfield, where safetyman Jakie Rudolph definitely will be missing and where Charlie Brannon and Jack Patterson are probable sideliners. Rudolph, injured by Kentucky, had given Tech its best safety performance since Jimmy Jordan left.

Tech has lost only once in this intermittent series that dates back to 1915. That came in 1945, 9-7, by dint of Red Knight's field goal. Last year the Jackets upset LSU in the Baton Rouge homecoming, 13-0, in a weird one.

Villanova Rips Alabama, 41-18

Wildcats' Ground Attack Baffles Favored Crimsons

By EDWIN POPE
Constitution Sports Writer

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 12—Villanova's raging Wildcats completely outplayed favored University of Alabama here Friday night to rack up a smashing 41-18 intersectional football victory.

The visitors pushed over three scores in the second quarter and remained on top all the way, chiefly on a bruising running attack which 'Bama was never able to throttle.

From the outset, Alabama extended its inexplicable streak of lethargy, but Villanova could do little better in the way of offense. The "drives" were Alabama one yard, Villanova minus 13, Alabama minus 16, a fumble recovered by Carrigan, and a George McCain pass intercepted by the Blues' Tony Marrolo. Here Haner reeled off a 42-yard rave to the Alabama, but when the ball got to the 15, Bedsemer dropped Brannau's pass in the clear and killed the hope.

A glittering punting contest between Bama's Bobby Wilson and Ralph Cecere blew up in Alabama's grimy faces when Wilson sliced one out at his 46. But the mainliner petered out passing again after moving to the 21.

Alabama, very liberal, offered the Philadelphians another quick chance in the second quarter. Jack Brown fumbled and Tackle Joe Faragalli recovered at the Tide 22. Villanova got five on an offsides penalty, sent Haner rolling down the alley twice, and Bedsemer finally to the eight. Haner wedged over from there after 3:30 of the second period, then added the extra to make it 7-0, Villanova.

The Alabama fumble-Villanova touchdown routine went smoothly again. George McCain spewed up a snap and Tom Fitzpatrick claimed it for Villanova at the home team's 16.

Brannau hit Joey Rilo at the seven and Bedsemer pounded down the middle to the one. Bedsemer moved across. The shock began to wear into a dull ache for Alabama and its partisans after Haner toed true to make it 14-0 after 6:40 of the second quarter.

Whoever wrote the script was guilty of murderous monotony. Alabama took possession again and quickly relinquished it. Brown pitched a lateral intended for Marlow. The halfback missed it and the Alabama team ignored it, figuring it as a forward, and dead. But Faragalli claimed it as a legal free ball, at Bama's 38.

Addiego forthwith took a deep pitchout from Brannau and bucked and snorted his way 38 yards down the left fringe and over. Haner converted and it was 21-0 Villanoca as the first half ended.

Alabama had been outrushed 179 yards to 44.

Alabama came from intermission with Hobson in charge of the offense supplanting Brown. The Tuscaloosa junior called a 69-yard scoring drive. He threw for 11 yards, then seven to Ken McAfee, and with Jerry Watford and Al Wilhite contributing crusher blockers, sent Compton and Marlow off tackles to the Villanova 36. From here, Hobson passed to Joe Curtis for 33 yards in the end zone but a personal foul on Alabama brought the ball back out to the 35.

Alabama cranked up again, punched in short strides to the 18 and got to the two on a piling-on penalty. Marlow, carrying the ball only for the fourth time of the evening, bulleted through for Alabama's first TD. Red Lutz was wide on the intended point after and Villanova still led 21-6.

The uprising served only to rile Villanova and, by way of a feeble punt, Rilo, for the Mainliners, starting over at their 34, went straight up the Tide middle to the Alabama 34.

Florida's Air Arm Tests Plainsmen

Special to The Constitution

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 12—Florida has Haywood Sullivan and Auburn has a leaky pass defense. That's why the Gators reign as two-touchdown favorites over the upcoming Plainsmen in Saturday's homecoming game here. Some 22,500 are expected for the (2:30 CST) kickoff.

Sullivan, who hails from nearby Dothan, is the third straight pitching ace that Auburn's inexperienced defenders have faced. Bill Wade, of Vandy, registered 14 completions in 22 tosses, and Wofford's Jack Beeler clicked on 24 of 31.

Although they upset Vandy and conquered Wofford, the Plainsmen have yielded 371 yards through the air in two games. Sullivan, the nation's tenth-ranking hurler, may be the difference

However, no one is counting Sug Jordan's hard-hitting squad out before the opening bell. No team in the conference can equal the fierce Auburn spirit and, with the old grads coming back, the Tigers will be keyed to a feverish pitch.

"Our boys ar ready," Jordan said Friday, "but we know Florida is a top-flight team. Don't forget that they have a good running attack led by sophomore Rick Casares and a tough line in addition to Sullivan.

"We'll miss Dave Ridgway, our right end, who won't be ready before the Tech game, and halfback Billy Conn is out. Otherwise, the squad is in fine shape, both mentally and physically."

If the Plainsmen could spring an upset, it would assure Auburn of its most successful season since 1946. That's the last year the Tigers won more than two games in a season and three in a row.

Auburn's passing attack has been practically nil in the first two games, with only three completions. But don't be surprised if Allan Parks takes to the air in this one.

The Gators should be set for passes, however, as Loyola, of California, uncorked a record number of 66 last week, completing 33. But Florida won with ease, 40-7. In other games, Florida blanked Wyoming, 13-0, trounced The Citadel, 27-7, and lost to Georgia Tech, 27-0.

Jordan will stick to his regular offensive backfield, with Parks in the T-slot, freshman Bobby Freeman and Charlie Hataway, halfbacks, and fullback Homer Williams.

Florida's ace punter, Reed Quinn, is a doubtful performer, but the rest of the Gators are in good health.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 12—(U.P.)—Medalist Babe Didrikson Zaharias and defending champion Beverly Hanson moved into the semi-finals of the women's Texas Open golf tournament Friday with victories over Alice Bauer of Midland, Texas, and Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore.

Miss Romack downed Marlene Bauer, 1-up, and the Kansas entry bested Bee McWayne of Birmingham, Ala., by the same score.

Mrs. Zaharias breezed through her match with Alice Bauer, 5 and 4. Miss Hanson, the slender Indio, Calif., girl seeking her third straight crown over the River Crest country club course, posted a 1-up victory over Miss Downey.

The semi-final round Saturday will match Mrs. Zaharias and Barbara Romack, and Marilyn Smith with the defending champion. Finals will be played Sunday.

Tar Heels Battle Erratic Gamecocks

By JESSE OUTLAR
Constitution Sports Writer

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 12—North Carolina, on the rebound after a 45-20 lashing by Texas, and erratic South Carolina collide here Saturday, with a homecoming turnout of 30,000 expected for the 2 p. m. kickoff.

If the Tar Heels stop Steve Wadiak, they'll stymie South Carolina, and the experts believe they can. North Carolina is a ten-point choice.

However, Gamecock supporters were encouraged by the manner in which Texas riddled the supposedly stout North Carolina line for 411 yards. They contend that Wadiak can get through, too.

On past performances, it stacks up as a grueling ground battle. Neither team has enjoyed aerial success. South Carolina's sophomore Johnny Gramling has yet to fulfill his pitching promises.

Coach Rex Enright was pessimistic over his Gamecock line on the eve of the game. "They have us outmanned up front, and I'll be forced to use several freshmen and sophomores. Last week our defense was woefully weak against Furman, so think what Carolina will do."

Leon Cunningham, former Atlanta Smith High star, is one freshman who'll get the starting call. He'll be in the linebacker slot. Former Smith teammate Harry Lovell may open at offensive tackle.

This is the fourth game for each team. South Carolina was walloped by Duke, 34-6, whipped The Citadel, 26-7, and downed Furman, 21-6. North Carolina thrashed N. C. State, 21-0, then bowed to Georgia, 28-16, and Texas.

The Gamecocks have won only four times in the 26-game series which was started in 1903.

Marist Knocks Down West Fulton, 19-12

By HARRY PHILLIPS

The Marist Cadets literally overpowered the hard fighting Owls from West Fulton, 19-12, at West Fulton Friday night before 4,000 fans.

Although Bobby Thurmond led the Owls 58 yards to a quick score in the first stanza, quarterback Jackie Cotter and the fine-moving Marist line moved across the double stripes twice before the half-way mark. Cotter passed 33 and 40 yards to Halfback John Brennen and Captain Doug Stapp respectively for the set-ups.

The Yardstick

The third quarter was marked by fumbles and interceptions.

The Owls had not given up by any means as they marched 78 yards to score in the early part of the fourth with Sophomore Russell Powell and Bobby Thurmond leading the way. In the 78 yards that the Owls traveled, Thurmond, one of the finest backs in the state, carried the mail 58 yards and scored from the Marist one. West Fulton missed the PAT making the score Marist 13, West Fulton 12.

The difference in the score was the powerful Marist line, which continually opened large holes for the fast Cadet backs to break through for yardage.

RAMS TRIUMPH, 20-7

Waites-Led College Park Bowls Over Summerville

Three timely and well-directed drives enabled College Park to beat Summerville, 20-7, Friday night on the College Park field.

College Park scored late in the first period, when Bobby Waites rammed center for seven yards, and rewarded its supporters with a 52-yard drive that ended in a touchdown on the last play of the game.

The line play of Roland Perdue was outstanding for College Park, both offensively and defensively. Duncan and Waites in the backfield were good, as was the offensive end play of Allen and Jordan, who engineered College Park's final touchdown.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Oct. 12—(U.P.)—Little Stetson College, led by pass-happy Bill Johnson, jumped off to a quick lead over the favored Furman Purple Hurricanes and then hung on through a wild and wooly final period for a 21-20 upset.

The unheralded hatters stunned the 6,000 fans at Sirrine Stadium here by marching 62 yards for a first period score and then matching Furman's two touchdown desperation efforts in the fading minutes of the game.

Alert Grady Upsets Sylvan's Bears, 19-0

Fullback Larry Frank and lefthalf Tommy Hanson accounted for 163 of Grady's 199 yards rushing Friday night to pace the Grey Knights to a startling 19-0 upset over Sylvan's Bears at Cheney Stadium.

Frank, who also sparkled defensively, along with teammates Jerry Froug and Walter Childs, climaxed a 52-yard touchdown march in the first quarter and scooped up a fourth-quarter Sylvan punt blocked by Childs to help set up Grady's final tally.

Hanson galloped 33 yards for Grady's second touchdown and five minutes later scored again from the one. He was top rusher with a 9.6 average.

A fast-charging Grady forewall and alert defensive play by Grady backs held ace Sylvan passer Stan Cochran to four completions for only 33 yards. Two of Cochran's eight throws were intercepted.

The Grey Knights scored the first time they were in possession of the ball. Consistent gains by Frank and Hanson, plus a 15-yard holding penalty, enabled Grady to rack up four consecutive first downs on its 52-yard first-quarter march. Frank went over from the one.

With Frank and Lupert LeCraw in the fore, Grady went to the Sylvan one early in the second period, but lost the ball on downs. Sylvan began to move late in the period, but Hanson grabbed a Cochran aerial at Grady's 12 to halt the threat.—ASHER

Lowrey Leads Devils Over S.W. DeKalb

Red Devil Jim Lowrey's talented toe was the difference Friday night in Druid Hills' 7-6 upset over undefeated Southwest DeKalb. Lowrey booted the winning point.

Druid Hills scored in the second period. Red Devil Bill Duckworth couldn't find his blockers, but he found the sidelines and raced 75 yards down the boundary to paydirt. Lowrey kicked, the point was good and Druid Hills led, 7-0.

In the last period with three minutes left in the game, Southwest DeKalb caught brief fire. Druid Hills punted to the Panthers' 30. Panther Jimmy Williams passed to Pug Buttrill 10 yards out. Buttrill dodged down to the Druid Hills 35, where Ed Lumsden cut down the last threatening tackler, and Buttrill continued his 70-yard jaunt to paydirt.

The Panther kick for conversion was low, and Druid Hills won, 7-6. Neither team had been defeated in DeKalb County play. Druid Hills lone defeat was to Athens.

BULLDOGS DRIVE 96 YARDS

North Fulton Battles Russell to 7-7 Draw

By THAD HORTON

A reporter covering the 7-7 deadlock between North Fulton and Russell at Dykes Field Friday night could have lost his pencil at halftime and still told the story. It was that kind of game.

The Bulldogs received the opening kickoff, fumbled two plays later, and had to contain a Russell drive at the 4-yard line before the battle was two minutes old. Setting up shop at this point, however, quarterback Wade Mitchell engineered a 96-yard drive that wound up with Dave Knapp sprinting 16 yards off left tackle into the Russell end zone.

En route, the lanky Mitchell completed three of four passes to as many receivers for 20, 24 and 7 yards. When he also booted a perfect EP try, spectators were ready to concede to the Bulldogs and their fashionable T-tricks.

The Yardstick

N. FULTON (7)		RUSSELL (7)
11	First Downs	8
43	Yards Rushing	145
103	Yards Passing	7
30	Penalties	30

But not Alex Truett and his single-wing Wildcats. After bracing at their own 23 to stop another Mitchell-built drive in the second quarter, the 'Cats put on a show of their own, featuring 135-pound fullback Jack Quinn and tailback Billy Moran as star attractions. With time running shy in the half, Quinn cracked in from 3 yards away after a holding penalty had put the Bulldogs in trouble. Moran circled end for the tying point, and the offensive book was written for the evening.

Second-half statistics made the first two periods look like a mistake. Mitchell, for example, threw 98 yards worth of passes in hitting 7 of 8 before intermission. After the breather, he found a receiver only one time in three tries for five yards. The Bulldog ground machinery groaned to a complete halt against savage Russell defenders, accounting for minus one yard in the last half.

By RAY McCRARY
Special to The Constitution

DOUGLASVILLE, Oct. 12—Douglasville attempted 10 passes Friday night and completed only one. But that one pass was good for 29 yards and resulted in a 7-6 downing of Southwest.

Midway in the third period Red Tuggle tossed to End Howard Kilgore among the double stripes. The 29-yard pass climaxed a 61-yard Douglasville drive. Tuggle added the game-winning extra point.

Southwest had jumped to a 6-0 lead just before the gun sounded ending the first half. C. S. Fields went through the middle of the home team's line for the score. The play ran down the curtain of an 80-yard march for Southwest.

O'Dell, Stevens Sparkle As Newnan Wins, 20-0

By JIM McLENDON

Newnan High's Tigers threw a merciless ground offensive and a tight defense against Hapeville Friday night to steamroll the Hornets, 20-0.

The Tigers unleashed a fine backfield of Don Stevens, Bill Overby, Wilson Allen and Bill O'Dell. O'Dell played his usual starring role as he scored twice, once on a 55-yard power drive that shook off four attempted tackles.

The Yardstick

NEWNAN (20)		HAPEVILLE (0)

283	Yards Rushing	12

Bud Jones' breathtaking pass interception and runback in the opening minutes partially salved the defeat for the Hornets. The lean speedster grabbed Stevens' pass on the Hapeville goal and traveled down the sideline to Newnan's five before he was spilled. The vicious Tiger line drove the Hornets back to squelch the threat.

Stevens sneaked over from the three for the initial score. O'Dell had set it up with a 40-yard off-tackle gain. Ray Weaver kicked the point. O'Dell added his two TD's in the third and fourth quarters. Weaver finished the scoring with another placement.

Freshman Ed Pierce played an outstanding game in Hapeville's line.

Hughes Racks Two TD's In 14-12 Marietta Win

Special to The Constitution

MARIETTA, Oct. 12—Marietta's Blue Devils and Cedartown High were nip 'n tuck in the "yards gained rushing" and the "yards gained passing" departments, but Marietta provided the extra drive to come out a 14-12 winner Friday night.

Marietta took the opening kickoff and drove 51 yards in six plays, with W. M. Hughes circling end for 24 yards and a touchdown.

A Jimmy Fitts to Bobby Hightower pass for nine yards, followed by a 15-yard roughing penalty, had put the Blue Devils in scoring position.

Cedartown fumbled on its first play from scrimmage following the Marietta kickoff, and Hightower grabbed the ball at the Cedartown 38 and raced to the five before being brought down. Hughes bucked over from the one-yard line. Marietta racked up its 14 points in the first three minutes and 25 seconds.

Early in the second, Ed Wilkes took in a Marietta punt at his own 35 and went 65 yards for a touchdown for Cedartown. Floyd Brock scored the second touchdown for Cedartown in the second to close the scoring for both quarters for the remainder of the game.

On Her Toes, She Keeps House in Three-Quarter Time

CAREER MOTHER—Left, Karen Conrad helps daughter Connie, aged six, in her bar exercises. Connie takes one dancing class a week. Right, the three little Corrys—Connie, Craig and Chris—watch Mama practice in preparation for a later performance. Below, just as adept at whipping up a batch of pimiento cheese as she is at a quick pirouette, Karen gives her two eldest an after-school lunch.

The Corrys are well known in dancing circles throughout the nation, being one of the youngest and most talented pair on the stage today. They have successfully correlated their work, teaching, professional dancing, and directing, with their homemaking. With three children and a crowded dance schedule keeping them busy for the Fall and Winter, they still have fun with their family and thoroughly enjoy their work. (Staff photos by Ryan Sanders).

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK

Petite Ballerina Home-Maker

By SCARLETT BLANTON

Keeping house, raising three livewire children, and teaching dancing, a schedule which would make any average woman's head swim, is all in a day's work for petite, cameo-faced Karen Conrad.

Miss Conrad, who is in private life Mrs. Pittman Corry, is half of Atlanta's most famous dance team and co-director of the Atlanta Dance Theatre. In addition, she helps her husband stage dance numbers for the Atlanta Opera Company, takes part in concert tours, dances for the Atlanta pop concerts, and teaches dancing six days a week.

Living proof that a career and marriage aren't incompatible, Miss Conrad runs her business and her home under the same roof with equal warmth, enthusiasm and success, and manages time in between for Sunday School picnics and long discussions on Hopalong.

Around the house she's better known as "Mama." Two of the little Corrys, Connie, six, and Chris, five, are in school. Craig, an old man of two years, provides plenty of activity at home.

"How do you manage to keep career and homemaking separate when it's all under the same roof?" we quered, unbelieving.

"First and foremost," answered Miss Conrad, "we make it clear to the children that we have regular working hours. They are not to interrupt or disturb the classes under any circumstances. They have a wonderful nurse, Judy, and they either play upstairs (the dance studios are all on the ground floor) or outside in the yard." She added that, luckily, there is an outside stairway to the upstairs nursery, so passageway through the two studios isn't necessary.

"How do you and Pitt divide the duties with the children, such as dressing, feeding and discipline?"

"Equally," came her reply . . . "we take turns, and each of us works with them." This is an adjustment of necessity, since Karen teaches as much as Pitt. In the usual home, mama does most of the "minding," but since Pitt's business is at home the chores are distributed equally.

Concerning recreation, the Corrys are together for an occasional outing, have parties among themselves, and enjoy television. "But," says Karen, "no movies yet. We want them to play outdoors as much as they can."

Instead of considering their job-at-home an insurmountable problem, the smart young Corrys turn it into an asset. They enjoy more time together than the average family, and do equally as good job of raising their small fry as grooming tomorrow's prima ballerinas!

Advice to a Bride

Now if you would be a dutiful wife
There are things you must know about married life:
Don't fume and don't fuss if he comes in at three,
Just be glad if he still can handle the key!
Don't ask where he went or whatever he did,
Or how much he lost or how high he bid.
Don't pout and don't nag; above all, don't weep!
Don't go through his pockets while he is asleep.
Don't make him eat salads or chiffon desserts,
And never, OH NEVER, put starch in his shirts!
Don't talk when he's reading or watching TV,
And whenever possible, always agree.
Tell him you love him and he is a Prince,
(He will not be overly hard to convince!)
And when he starts working on your check book,
Sit quietly by with an innocent look,
Or flash him a smile of such lavish distraction,
It will make him forget your faulty subtraction.
It's really quite simple, I'm sure you'll agree.
(If my husband reads this, will he recognize ME?)

INFLATION FIGHT

U. S. Women Must Insist On Economy

By AGNES R. OLMSTEAD

CHICAGO—If the Post Office Department undertook to deliver milk to your doorstep, the cost of delivery alone, under present rates, would be $1.58 per quart. And under the proposed increase in postal rates the delivery cost would be $2.10 per quart, Theodore G. Montague, president of the Borden Company, told the nations' newspaper food editors meeting here.

Watching every cost element is essential in marketing "America's groceries," especially a low-priced, low-profit, highly competitive item such as milk, Mr. Montague explained. The homemakers of the nation can help combat inflation by insisting the government follow the economy practices of their own homes and of America's industries, he continued.

Urging upon American women an understanding of basic economics as they apply to national affairs, Mr. Montague said:

"From the elementary matters which directly concern the operation of the household, it is but a step to the general economic problems that are troubling the country today. The solution of many of these problems rests with housewives as well as the men in government."

Consumers are so confused by price, by dollars and cents, that they have lost their sense of values, Mr. Montague said. To regain it, he suggested they visualize a return to the barter system for a brief period during which all trading would be done in terms of merchandise. On the barter basis, if the housewife started with one case of milk (12 quarts), she would learn that among items she could get in exchange would be only one of these: One toothbrush and three tubes of toothpaste; a very small bottle of inexpensive perfume; six short-stemmed roses; one pair of baby shoes, or a home permanent wave kit.

In a comparison of milk and dairy products with other foods, Mr. Montague pointed out that the recommended amounts of milk, as set forth in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's "moderate-cost market basket," will provide about 40 percent of the family's nutriments. More important even than that, he added, the price of this 40 percent nutriment comes to less than 23 percent of the cost of the entire basket of recommended foods.

To show how the dairy industry has worked to keep milk prices low, Mr. Montague stated that the substitution of every-other-day delivery for daily home service has pared more than a quarter billion dollars from the American consumers' annual milk bill. He urged an industry-wide reduction in home deliveries to three times weekly to bring about even greater savings to the consumer. This limited service plan is already in use in many cities, he said, adding that there is no sound argument that can be advanced against it.

This dinner was held in Chicago's swank, exclusive, historic Saddle and Cycle Club. We saw nary a saddle and it is reported they are down to their last cycle, but the proud guest book reads like a social blue book, topped with the Duke of Windsor's name.

In case you ever thought we were coming back to Atlanta undernourished, perish the thought. Here is the magnificent menu for what we suspect will be the six-course meal-of-the week:

Appetizers of lobster canape, cheese-stuffed mushrooms, cheese souffle toast, mincemeat toasted rolls, cream cheese chutney canapes, crabmeat en profiterol, blue cheese and ham rolls, cream cheese and watercress rolls, celery stuffed with roquefort.

These were served with cocktails.

Dinner proper was:

Hot consomme madrilene served with chive cheese sticks, celery, olives, radishes, filet of English sole margeury with boiled parisienne potato balls, breast of wild pheasant, Madeira sauce, spiced pear, orange baskets with currant jelly, wild rice, broccoli hollandaise, hearts of palm and cottage cheese salad with sour cream dressing, flaming ice cream sundaes, instant coffee and, of course, milk.

The incongruous note to all this elegance was the milk served in bottles. But after all it is the company's major product and an advertising plug is advantageous regardless of how it is secured.

Mrs. B. E. Baker Named Head Of Cancer Unit

Mrs. B. E. Baker, civic leader and former businesswoman, has been named General Chairman of the Fulton County unit, American Cancer Society, C. Sims Bray Jr., chairman of the board, announced Friday.

"Mrs. Baker's business experience will help her organize the county-wide educational program to prevent needless cancer deaths due to delay in securing treatment," Mr. Bray said.

Mrs. Baker immediately announced appointment of three co-chairmen: Mrs. Fred J. Turner, Mrs. J. J. Nicholson and Mrs. Ransom Burts.

"We will need thousands of men and women to give a few hours a month to help prevent needless suffering and death from cancer," Mrs. Baker said.

Volunteers should send their name and address to Fulton County headquarters, 179 Spring Street, N. W.

Mrs. Fred J. Paxon will serve as full-time executive secretary for the Fulton County unit.

WE JUMPED TROLLEY

to make a talk test. Who talks on the trolley anyhow? Why? Do married couples outtalk courting ones? Do girls chat more than men? Georgia and Ray Tanner posed a problem. She was chatting cheerily. He was reading unconcernedly. More study showed that married couples are the least talkative of all. They say no more than is strictly necessary. One couple in three never speak from boarding to getting-off time. Silence reigned in an all-stag group (pictured next), Stan Gibson, Jr., Stephen Harris and Euell Whatley. They broke the big silence to surmise that two men companions will stop talking a few minutes after boarding the bus. Courting couple, Elizabeth Ann Ellis and Marvin Owen, were making with the happy talk. "It never stops," they admitted. "She does the most," Mr. Owen added. Two women friends will talk through 70 percent of the trip, enduring at the most two minutes of sustained silence. Martha Cox and Sara Calhoun illustrated a trolley ride is next best to a tea party, the girls said, a real social occasion. What do they discuss? The silent men!

Your Stars Today

Sun in Libra

General Tendencies—A few people can pass through today without hard feelings toward the human race as a whole, but it won't be the group born in late March or around the middle of October. Resentment, gossip and many underhanded deals can take place today, although men and women of the higher type of mentality will never allow such acts to issue from their hands, no matter what the cause may be. Try to keep money and valuables well-guarded here and remember, also that good name, reputation and consideration are even more valuable than jewels; don't lose any of them.

If It's Your Birthday — Avoid risks which can affect either money or health all during the remaining months of 1951 and during the Spring of 1952. You have an unexpected difficulty to conquer this year and should keep all resources in order. Probably you will make a change in business; this can be satisfactory if you allow yourself time and money to finance a new and proper connection. Don't choose this period as a time for lasting emotional interests; you will only be disappointed. You can make many good friends and enjoy much social activity but it won't turn out to be the McCoy.

Fewer Civilian Goods Predicted for 1952

Output of Consumer Items Seen Ample for Normal Needs

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Government is going to cut down on the manufacture of many civilian items, but believes there will still be enough for normal needs.

This report came Friday from Manley Eleischmann, head of the Defense Production Administration (DPA), who announced that the use of metal in making household appliances and other consumer goods will be reduced by about 11½ percent beginning Jan. 1.

"The outlook is that production of such civilian items as refrigerators, stoves, radios, television sets and home appliances of all kinds will be reduced," Eleischmann told a joint meeting of four Congressional committees.

AMPLE SUPPLIES

"But because generally ample supplies of these products are now on dealers' shelves the supply should be sufficient to meet normal consumer needs."

Because of the increasing need for metal in the Defense Production effort, manufacturers of washing machines, refrigerators, etc., already have been limited to 58 percent of their pre-Korea use of steel, 54 percent of copper and 46 percent of aluminum.

The four Congressional committees—Senate and House groups on banking and small business problems—were told by Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson that the first half of 1952 will be the period of toughest materials shortages.

"We will be moving through a wood of shade and sometimes darkness," he said.

NOT HAPPY YEAR

By the middle of next year, he said, there should be easier days unless that threat of world war grows worse.

Saying that the next half year "will not be a happy one" for many industries, Wilson reported defense requirements will take 40 percent of aluminum production and "60 to 100 percent" of some other metals.

He said there must be a cutback in civilian use of almost all materials, but that manufacturers may be able to use substitutes for some of these.

In another part of the economic picture, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicted that price increases, if any, will be moderate in the next few months.

PRICE RISE UNLIKELY

It said a rapid increase in industrial productive capacity, plus substantial inventories of many consumer items and heavy farm production, should tend to keep prices down.

These factors, the Bureau said, should tend to offset pressures created by rising personal incomes, record demand for plants and equipment, and the growing needs of the defense program.

In testifying before the Senate and House committees, Fleischmann said the Government's production chiefs are being constantly assailed with suggestions that they should halt all production of metal-consuming products such as automobiles and refrigerators.

"We believe that would be an act of folly," he said. "We are in for what may be five or 10 years of half-war. Many of these products such as autos are not nonessential by any test."

LESS AUTOS SEEN

Fleischmann confirmed reports that auto production will be held down, however, to 930,000 passenger cars in the first quarter of 1952. This compares with the present quarter's output of 1,100,000 and the pre-Korea rate of 1,600,000 every three months.

Car makers will be allowed to go above the 930,000 mark, to as high as 1,006,000, if they use substitutes to take the place of their lessened allowances of steel, copper and aluminum.

Fleischmann said every effort will be made to supply materials to build badly needed elementary schools, but school boards would do well to turn more and more to concrete as opposed to steel construction.

He also said the Government agencies are trying to make available to State Highway Departments enough steel to complete "the most important projects."

New Model Transport for EAL Tested

The first of 60 twin-engine new model 404s built for Eastern Air Lines by the Glen L. Martin Company of Baltimore was demonstrated at a preview before the airline's Advisory and Field Board of Directors at the conclusion of their semi-annual meeting at Miami Beach, it was announced here.

Put through its paces by Martin's O. E. "Pat" Tibbs, first flight tester, George Rodney, first test pilot for the 404 project, and Captain Fred E. Davis, Eastern Air Lines' engineering pilot, the new transport showed better than specified speed, impressive one-engine climb and 30 percent faster loading and unloading, an official said.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president and general manager, announced that Eastern has adopted the trade name of "Silver Falcon" for its new transport and will introduce it to the public with the largest advertising and promotion program in the industry's history. Between now and November 21 Martin will deliver seven more of the new transports for personnel training and route flying. The first Silver Falcon scheduled for regular passenger service will be turned over to Eastern on November 29, Captain Rickenbacker said.

N.&W. Designs New Locomotive

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 12—(AP)—The president of the Norfolk and Western Railway said his railroad expects to have a radically new locomotive on its lines for test runs by the end of 1952.

It will be a coal-burning, steam-turbine, electric-drive locomotive. Pres. R. H. Smith said it will generate more than double the boiler pressure in ordinary locomotives.

The Norfolk and Western is the only railroad that builds its own locomotives.

Petrochemicals Featured In Oil Progress Week

By BILL BORING

Oil Progress Week begins Sunday and we in the South should be particularly observant.

Not just because the South produces more oil than any other section of the nation, nor because oil is one of the world's most vital raw materials both in time of peace and war; but let's pay tribute to oil for the most recent blessing it has bestowed upon our section.

We are referring to the benefits we have derived from petrochemicals.

From a 42-gallon barrel of crude oil, the petroleum industry produces 18 gallons of gasoline, nine gallons of residual fuel oil, two gallons of kerosene and seven gallons of distillates.

LURES NEW INDUSTRIES

What's left of the 42 gallons of crude oil is converted into petrochemicals, which are bringing to the South chemical industries of all types.

Nearly half of the nation's current $4,000,000,000 expansion of the chemical industry is going into Southern states. Petrochemicals are directly responsible for a lion's share of this new industrial expansion in chemicals and at the same time is contributing to the establishment here of other major industries.

The tremendous duPont Company now has 20 petrochemical-using plants in the South, employing more than 30,000 persons, and is planning additional plants.

Monsanto is building a new plant in Texas for petrochemical use. Reichold Chemicals is expanding its multi-million-dollar plant at Charlotte, N. C. Davison Chemicals is investing $7,000,000 in a new plant to make petroleum cracking catalysts at Lake Charles, La. The whole list of new and projected industrial expansion allied to metrochemicals is far too lengthy for this article.

SYNTHETICS GAIN

Our tremendous gains in synthetic fibers such as nylon, orlon and dacron is keyed to the use of petrochemicals such as benzene, acrylonitrile and ethylene glycol.

Agriculture benefits from the petrochemicals — benzene hexachloride and monochloro benzene —used in insecticidal compositions for the control of crop and livestock pests.

Many oil companies are engaged in petrochemical research. Gulf Oil is spending $200,000,000 in such a program.

Petrochemicals have converted once sleepy Southern cities into national industrial giants. Houston, for example, owes most of its progress to them.

Here in Georgia hundreds of factories benefit from petrochemicals. Currently petrochemicals enter into the manufacture of more than 1,200 products and as the oil industry continues its research new products are being added every day.

Enforcement Drive Mapped For NPA Rules

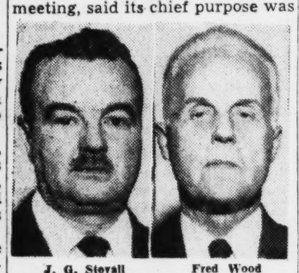

A campaign calling for strict enforcement of National Production Authority orders and regulations was mapped by officials at a conference here.

M. C. Lofton

U. S. Department of Commerce field officials from 14 Southeastern points attended the conference.

Merrill C. Lofton, regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce, who presided over the meeting, said its chief purpose was to discuss ways and means of tightening the enforcement of the NPA orders and regulations.

J. G. Stovall — Fred Wood

The NPA is charged with the allocation of strategic materials in the defense economy.

The field officials who attended the meeting include: Joseph G. Stovall, Savannah; Fred Wood, Augusta; J. C. Carlin, Nashville, Tenn.; A. B. Clarke, Chattanooga, Tenn.; John Fowler, Memphis, Tenn.; Lucien Greene, Knoxville; C. W. Martin, Charleston, S. C.; William B. Worthy, Columbia, S. C.; Paul Jones, Birmingham, Ala.; Malcolm H. Laws, Mobile, Ala.; William A. Dunlap, Jacksonville, Fla.; Marion A. Leonard, Miami, Fla.; Charles Muirhead, Tampa, Fla., and Erwin L. Gulledge, Jackson, Miss.

Shippers Guide For 1951-52 Out

A 1951-52 Shippers Guide for motor freight is off the press.

Frank W. Elrod, of Atlanta, its publisher, said the guide combines the shipping data of the 78 motor freight lines serving Atlanta and covers 17 different classifications of rates for 5,573 points out of Atlanta.

The guide includes information concerning which points each carrier makes direct, the telephone number and address of the carrier, the carrier's minimum charge and its rate, Elrod said.

Elrod is credit manager of Brown Transportation Corp. of Atlanta and is on the standard rate committee for the Georgia Intrastate Motor Carriers.

He said the memorandum rates published in the guide are reproduced from tariffs on file with the Georgia Public Service commissioner and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

L&N Issue Okayed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP). The Interstate Commerce Commission Friday authorized the Louisville and Nashville Railroad to issue $7,800,000 of equipment trust certificates in connection with new equipment purchases.

Home Building ProgramOutlined

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Government expects to begin construction of 800,000 to 850,000 new homes next year, the same goal set for 1951, Housing and Home Finance Administrator Raymond M. Foley said.

Economic Stabilization Administrator Eric Johnson has announced he will recommend cuts in all 1952 construction, including residential. But Foley told a luncheon session of the National Association of Housing Officials holding a four-day meeting:

"We must assume that we will be permitted to maintain a reasonably large housing production unless some compelling factor forces a different general approach."

Why Not Shrink Cars To Conserve Materials? Sen. Fulbright Queries

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Senator Fulbright (Dem., Ark.), demanded Friday why the Government doesn't "ask Ford and General Motors" to shrink down the size of automobiles to conserve materials.

Automobiles, he protested at a public hearing, are "as big as hearses" and are "becoming such a nuisance."

Manly Fleischmann, Defense Production Administrator, testifying at materials shortage hearings before the combined Senate-House banking and small business committees, rejected the idea.

He said his agency considered "a minimum of Government direction of industry is advisable." The Government, he said, allocates scarce materials and leaves it up to the industries "to do the best they can" to maintain production.

Only if rationing becomes imminent, he said, would his agency consider placing a limit on automobiles' bulk.

Fulbright said he thought the factories could get "two cars instead of one" from available materials.

Won't Cut Ceiling on Raw Cotton

DiSalle Assures Southern Solons

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Price Administrator Michael V. DiSalle assured cotton-state congressmen Friday that any new order he may issue on textile prices will not lower existing ceilings on raw cotton.

"The ceiling price on raw cotton will not be reduced by any action of ours," DiSalle told reporters after a conference with House Agriculture Committee Chairman Cooley (Dem., NC), and officials of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Cooley had called DiSalle and others into a closed conference in his office after concern had been expressed that some OPS move might hurt the cotton market.

After the meeting DiSalle told reporters he hopes to have some new regulations ready on textiles within about two weeks.

He indicated they would be on a dollar and cents level, compared to the marginal profit regulations now in force on textiles. The ceiling on raw cotton is 45.6 cents per pound, but the staple actually is selling currently at 37½ cents.

Although implying that the revised ceilings on textiles may be revised downward, DiSalle did state flatly no attempt would be made "to capture the present depressed market."

"Mr. DiSalle assured us," Cooley said, "that he has no intention of taking any action, either directly or indirectly, which would have the effect of reducing the ceiling on raw cotton."

Cooley said farmers need assurances of fair market prices if another big cotton crop in 1952, like the 17,000,000-bale yield this year, is to be expected.

He said large cotton production would keep down the price of textiles to consumers.

Here Is How Taxes Affect Weekly Pay

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Government is going into high gear to make sure it takes a bigger bite out of your paycheck starting Nov. 1.

A Senate-House conference committee only Thursday approved a $5,750,000,000 tax increase bill. And the measure still has to be approved by both chambers and the President before it becomes law.

But the Internal Revenue Bureau already is rushing out forms that spell out just how many dollars and cents will be withheld from the paychecks of 40,000,000 citizens for income taxes.

Obviously, officials don't expect any last-minute changes in the bill, but the schedules are based on an increase of 11 percent in income taxes as provided in the bill when it left the Senate finance committee. The conferees upped this figure to an average of about 11¾ percent.

5 Months' Work For New Taxes, Republican Says

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 12—(AP). Rep. August H. Andresen, (Rep., Minn.), Friday said the American worker will be required to labor five months of each year to pay his direct and "hidden" taxes under the new tax bill.

"The present tax bill which is on its way to enactment is the third tax increase in less than 18 months," the congressman told the 54th annual convention of the Minnesota State Automobile Association.

"We are told that the President will demand another increase in 1952," he added.

He warned that "unless the people take hold to help the minority in Congress drastically cut federal spending, the United States is headed for disaster."

The federal "spending binge" has engendered a disastrous inflation at home and abroad," he declared.

"Economic planners in Washington are working night and day to accelerate the inflationary spiral to avoid a recession in 1952 and to secure greater control over the economy of the country," he charged.

"They fear the day of reckoning, which is inevitable."

A product sales meeting for the Apex dishwasher was held Friday night by the Crane Company, distributor of the appliance.

The meeting, held in the Crane Company showroom on the Washington Street viaduct, was attended by several Crane Company officials and representatives of the Apex Electrical Manufacturing Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, producer of the Apex line of dishwashers.

Crane Company officials attending were D. H. Armstrong, the company's district manager here, and E. T. Ebert, district regional manager at Birmingham, Ala.

Planning Stressed In Salesmanship

Planning of any sales approach is probably the most important chore a sales executive can have, Bret C. Neece reminded members of the Atlanta Sales Executives Club Friday at the Henry Grady Hotel.

Vice-president and general sales manager of Landers, Frary and Clarke, Neece emphasized there is no substitute in salesmanship for a thorough knowledge of the product.

Dick Osgood was master of ceremonies at the meeting.

Weary, Victorious Georgia FFA Group En Route Home

By CECIL COFFEY

Constitution Staff Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 12—A tired group of Georgia Future Farmers left Kansas City Friday after winning several national honors and awards at the 24th FFA National convention which ended Thursday night.

Billy Howard, 17-year-old Future farmer from Plains, took home to Georgia the second highest office in the national FFA organization, that of national first vice president. This was the second time a Georgia boy has been elected to national office. Marion Wing, now manager of the Sears-Roebuck Farm Store in Atlanta, was elected to the FFA national board of officers in 1932.

The Blakely-Union FFA chapter was a winner in the national chapter achievement contest, receiving gold emblem rating for the third consecutive year. Only 32 chapters out of 8,000 in the nation were declared eligible for the top rating.

The Rabun Gap chapter was one of three chapters in the nation awarded an honorable mention certificate.

A Georgia champion livestock judging team stayed over in Kansas City for the National Livestock Judging contest in connection with the American Royal Livestock Show. Members of the national FFA band and chorus also stayed over for the big Royal parade Saturday.

The Georgia convention delegation, every one a winner in staff FFA contests, were unanimous in their opinion that Georgia's national rating in agriculture is definitely climbing.

"The opinions of these young farmers is not to be taken lightly," one State advisor said. "They know more about farming than their grandfathers ever dreamed of knowing."

Of special interest to the Georgia Future Farmers were questions on Georgia grazing, asked them by boys from Western cattle areas. More and more Western cattlemen are casting eyes toward Georgia for the answer to many of their cattle producing problems.

Many Kansas City residents and visitors to the convention were frequently startled by sudden Rebel yells and the appearance of Confederate flags and campaign hats. Occasionally the strains of "Yankee Doodle" would arise in answer to Southern merrymakers.

Municipal, civic and business organizations of the Kansas City area went "all-out" to entertain the Future Farmers. The Georgia group attended several luncheons and dinners, toured the flood area and visited the Truman home.

State FFA leaders are already planning for Georgia to enter more contests next year to continue its upward swing in youths agriculture programs. Election of Billy Howard as national vice president adds much to the prestige of the Georgia FFA, according to opinions expressed by FFA leaders.

Railroads Ask More Time For Freight Classification

The railroads Friday asked for more time in which to complete a proposed uniform classification of freight designed to further the program of equalizing Southern freight rates with those of the rest of the country.

The table specifically would eliminate difference in classification in the East, South and West. When the ICC issued its order calling for the proposed uniform classification observers here interpreted the move as a gain for the South in its long fight for freight rate equalization.

SCALE DOWN RATES

When the classifications eventually are made effective, the railroads must also scale down the class rates in the South and in the territory between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains by about 15 percent. This will end long-existing differences in the charges in those territories and in the highly industrialized Eastern states.

Rate revisions for the Far West are still under ICC study.

The entire program is intended to meet the complaints made for many years by Southern and Western business that lower Eastern rates have retarded industrial expansion elsewhere.

The initial rate revision, looking to parity, was ordered by ICC in 1945 when the Eastern railroads were required to raise their rates by 10 percent and the other carriers operating up to the Rocky Mountains had to reduce freight charges by 10 percent.

The ICC ordered the railroads to file the uniform classification by Dec. 1 of this year. The railroads said Friday a diligent effort has been made to meet this deadline, but that it does not seem possible to complete the table covering about 20,000 freight items, before Feb. 1, 1952.

The industry proposed that it be permitted to file the table at that time and also file the new rates revisions at the same time, with both to become effective 120 days later, on June 1, 1952.

The railroads suggested that under this schedule, any segment of the shipping public desiring to protest any change in classification or rates would have to do so by April 15, 1952.

Credit Union Is Organized By Optometrists

Formation of a Georgia Optometric Credit Union was completed here Friday with the election of Dr. Lovick H. Williamson, of Atlanta, as president.

Elected to other offices were Dr. W. R. Wilson, Sr., of Douglas, vice president; Dr. Alton L. Turner, of Atlanta, treasurer-clerk and Dr. A. Scott Gibson, Thomaston; Dr. C. A. Meaders, Toccoa; Dr. Thomas E. Hogshead, Dalton, and Dr. J. H. Spratling, Sr., supervisory committeeman.

The Board of Directors will comprise the three principal office holders and Dr. Dave L. Williams, of Rome, and Dr. Joel S. Brown, of Atlanta.

Dr. Williamson said the union is chartered by the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions and sponsored by the Georgia Optometric Association.

He added that it was created "to assist deserving new practitioners in establishing ethical, professional optometric practices in Georgia."

'Evaluation' Of Schools Scheduled

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Evaluation of Atlanta's 90 elementary schools will begin next week.

Roy Davis, assistant school superintendent, Friday said the evaluation program for high schools has been so effective that school leaders have determined to extend it to elementary grades. The evaluation program deals largely with curricula, activities, procedures and other factors which produce a well-rounded, effective atmosphere.

Dr. Arnold Perry and Miss Sara Lou Hammond, of the educational divisions of the University of North Carolina and Florida State University, respectively, will address meetings of principals and teachers in a two day conference Thursday and Friday. Both are highly recognized experts in the educational field and both have specilaized in elementary school work.

Mrs. Frances Douglas, principal of Spring Street school, will be host to white principals at a meeting at 10 a. m. Thursday. At 10 a. m. Friday Negro principals will attend a conference at the E. A. Ware school.

The general theme will be a discussion of travels in elementary education, how to plan and what constitutes a good elementary program.

More Inspectors

Building Inspector William R. Wofford is asking four additional building inspectors to serve the 82 additional square mile area which will be added to the city in January when the Plan of Improvement becomes operative. Wofford says he will get no additional personnel under the merger of various divisions of the Atlanta and Fulton County governments and his present staff already is overworked and cannot meet demands.

Class Prophet's 1913 Prediction Fulfilled by Illinois Central Veep

CHICAGO, Oct. 12—(INS)—A southbound special waited at Chicago's Illinois Central railroad station Friday night to carry an executive on a sentimental journey home and make a 38-year-old prophecy come true.

Frank (Slim) Martin, 56, the Illinois Central's newest vice-president, will board a private car and begin the 200-mile special run downstate to tiny Newton, Ill.

In 1913, when Martin graduated from Newton High School, the class prophet wrote:

"And Frank Martin will become a vice-president of the Illinois Central Railroad and some day he'll come back to see us in his private car and he'll invite the members of his old class to have dinner with him."

That's just what Martin plans to do. And he'll make the trip with the class prophet—the present Mrs. Martin.

COUNTY AFFAIRS

Grand Jury Turns Down Park Lease

By ALEX JOINER

The current Fulton County Grand Jury has declined to authorize the County Commission to negotiate a new three-year lease with the Mounted Patrol of the Yarab Temple for the equestrian area of Chastain Memorial Park.

The Patrol, sponsors of the annual Fulton-DeKalb Horse Show, have rented the property from the County for $50 a month for several years. The County reported to the jury it had spent $7,473.95 on the property during the past two years as a civic enterprise.

The jury maintained that the $50 a month failed to represent best interests of the county and its citizens. It added the new lease would not "reflect proper attitude or consideration" for the city government which takes over operation of county parks Jan. 1, 1952.

Sheriff's Status Depends on Jury Action in Dade

The status of Dade County Sheriff John William Lynch, fined $1,000 and given a year's prison term for denying seven Negroes their civil rights, depends on the Dade County Grand Jury, according to Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook.

Cook said Friday that Lynch's ouster as sheriff must be requested by a Dade County Grand Jury before any action is taken. The governor then would act on this request and would be required to hold a hearing on the ouster.

Lynch announced earlier that he would continue to serve as Dade County sheriff while he was in Federal prison. His wife, whom he has sworn in as deputy sheriff, will serve as head of the office during his absence, he said.

Ex-Atlantan Urges World Art Exhibits

Gwyn Ferris, former Atlantan who has gained wide fame as a contemporary painter, would like to see exchange shows between "artists of the entire world, as an immediate and practical way of furthering good will."

Miss Ferris, in Atlanta for the current exhibition of her abstract oils and water colors at the Castle Gallery at 87 Fifteenth St., N. W., explained:

"Painting, like music, is a universal language. So many nations know too little of America's culture."

Gwyn Ferris

Miss Ferris, daughter of Mrs. Harold A. Ferris, Sr., of 791 St. Charles Ave., N. E., has been in contact with the State Department in an effort to set up an exhibition of American paintings in India. The movement started when a friend from Cashmere, India, took home a painting of hers and that of another New Yorker.

A graduate of old Girls High School and the High Museum of Art, Miss Ferris has been living in New York City for the past 13 years. Her paintings have been hung in New York galleries along with those of such modern European masters as Picasso, deChirico and Roualt.

Miss Ferris' paintings will be on display at the Castle Gallery through Oct. 27, Mrs. Hazel Roy Butler, director, said.

Senator Asks Curb on Data For Russians

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Sen. Maybank (Dem., S. C.) said Russia is buying official government publications that might contain valuable information on strategic materials and urged two witnesses Friday to edit their testimony before it is officially published.

He said he had blocked one such Russian attempt to buy a government publication.

He urged Charles E. Wilson, Defense Mobilization Director, and Manly Fleischmann, Defense Production Administrator, to carefully screen testimony they gave the Senate-House Banking and Small Business Committees Friday on scarce metals allocations.

Maybank said they would be given a chance to knock any security information out of the record before it was published.

The hearing was open to the public, but the Senator said only reporters were present and their stories do not go into great detail.

The South Carolina Senator, who heads the Banking Committee, said an order had recently come to that group for shipment to Moscow of a copy of some Dec. 20, 1950, hearings, on strategic materials. The witnesses at the hearing were Fleischmann and John D. Small, chairman of the Munitions Board.

Maybank said he directed that the order not be filled even though all secret information had been eliminated before the testimony was published.
